Legislature Will Be Controlled by Republicans

Senate Passes From Democratic Control—McGinnies Slated for Assembly Speaker—Fearon Probable Majority Senate Leader—Adler Likely to Continue Republican Leader of Assembly.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Republican control of both houses of the 1925 Legislature was assured early today when returns showed gains for the G. O. P. in the senate and assembly.

This will be the second time Governor Al Smith has been faced with a hostile Legislature. The Republicans controlled the 1924 assembly by a majority of six votes, while the Democrats had a majority of one in the senate.

While returns from many of the rural counties were slow in coming in, it was indicated that the Republicans had gained at least two seats in the senate and probably from four to six in the assembly.

Colonel Gillette Defeated.

The election of John F. Williams of Hoosick Falls, Republican candidate for senator in the thirty-first district, over Colonel Ransom H. Gillette, Democrat of Troy, virtually insured Republican control of the upper house of the Legislature. This post has been held for the last two years by a Democrat.

The Republicans gained another seat in the senate when Robert C. Lacy, present Democratic senator from Erie county, was defeated by his Republican opponent, Leonard H. Lapowicz.

Albany and Rensselaer counties contributed to the Republican gains in the assembly. Through the election of Delbert C. Hall and Frederick B. Lunden, in the first and second Albany districts, the Republicans gained two new seats in the lower branch of the Legislature.

More Republican Assembly Gains.

Additional Republican gains in the assembly fight were made in the first district of Rensselaer county where Edward J. Donahue, Troy Republican, was elected; in the second district of Onondaga where Willis H. Sargent of Syracuse was elected; and in the fifth district of Westchester through the election of George A. Krug.

William E. Smith, Democrat, was elected in the first Erie district and Dion T. Kahil, Democrat, in the sixth district of Erie.

Judge Jeremiah Keck who defeated Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson, cousin of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, for the Republican senatorial nomination in the district comprising Herkimer and Hamilton counties, was elected.

McGinnies Slated for Speaker.

Assemblyman Joseph A. McGinnies, Republican of Chautauque, who is slated to succeed H. Edmund Macdonald of Jefferson, as speaker of the 1925 assembly, was re-elected. McGinnies has been chairman of the ways and means committee for the last four years. It was understood at the capitol at the time of Speaker Macdonald's retirement from the assembly that McGinnies would be the next speaker, providing he was re-elected and the house continued in Republican control.

Adler Leadership May Continue.

The re-election of Assemblyman Simon L. Adler of Rochester, means, Republican leaders said today, that he will continue as majority leader of the lower house.

Assemblyman F. Trubee Davison of Nassau, is in line for chairman of the ways and means committee at the 1925 session. This is considered the most important post in the lower house with the exception of speaker and possibly majority leader.

Morris Bloch, New York Democrat and leader of the minority forces in the house at the 1924 session, is expected to be re-elected to that post when the next session gets underway.

Fearon Republican Senate Leader.

Senator George R. Fearon, Syracuse Republican in all probability, it was said today at the capitol, will be the G. O. P. leader in the upper house for the next two years. Senator James J. Walker of New York, will continue as Democratic leader in the senate, it was said.

When Senator Clayton R. Lusk of Cortland, for many years leader of the Republican forces in the senate, announced his retirement at the 1924 session, it was predicted on all sides that Senator Fearon, in the event of his re-election would be the next leader of the G. O. P. in the senate. Fearon has served two terms in the senate and was a member of the assembly for five years.

MRS. JOHN T. MURRAY

HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. John T. Murray of 101 Elmendorf street is in the Kingston City Hospital with a broken wrist and a broken collar bone as the result of an auto accident Tuesday while on the way to Stamford.

Rockledge Driver Jailed.

Ray Jordan was brought to the Ulster county jail, Tuesday, from Port Ewen, to serve twenty-five days in default of the payment of a fine of $25 imposed by Justice of the Peace H. E. McKenzie. Jordan was found guilty of running an automobile in a reckless manner in violation of the motor vehicle law.

Smith Elected by Over 100,000

Republicans Claim Election of Senator Lowman as Lieutenant Governor—Democrats Claim Lunn's Re-Election—Other State Officials Elected are Republicans.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 5.—Governor Alfred E. Smith has been elected chief executive of New York state over Colonel Theodore Roosevelt by more than 100,000, according to unofficial returns compiled here today.

Republican leaders were claiming the election of State Senator Seymour Lowman of Elmira, as lieutenant governor. The race between Lowman and Lieutenant Governor George R. Lunn of Schenectady, was believed very close.

All other Republican candidates on the state tickets are believed to have been elected.

This marks the second time Governor Smith has been elected when all other Democratic candidates with the exception of Lieutenant governor, were defeated.

Word was received at the Executive Chamber from New York at 11 o'clock that Governor Smith's plurality would be "about 110,000."

Legislature of Opposite Faith.

In 1918 Governor Smith defeated Governor Charles S. Whitman while all other Democratic candidates except Lieut. Governor Harry C. Walker of Binghamton went down to defeat. During the governor's first two years as chief executive he was faced by a Republican senate and assembly the same as will confront him for the next two years. The second time Smith was elected he had a little better luck as far as the Legislature was concerned. The senate was Democratic by one vote, but the assembly remained in control of the Republican party.

Only the great vote which was rolled up for Governor Smith in Greater New York saved him from defeat yesterday. He had predicted he would carry the greater city by close to half a million and his prediction came true.

Roosevelt's Phenomenal Run.

Republican leaders consider Colonel Roosevelt made a phenomenal run upstate. He overturned Smith majorities of two years ago in every one of the big upstate cities except those which are strongly Democratic.

Governor Smith had felt confident he would carry Syracuse by a big vote but it went to Roosevelt by more than 4,000. Buffalo, which Smith had predicted he would carry by a "safe" majority, went to Roosevelt by nearly 11,000. Albany city and county gave Smith a plurality of approximately 8,000 over Roosevelt, while President Coolidge carried the county by about the same vote.

Smith—Then and Now.

Democratic leaders insisted the results showed Governor Smith "just as strong" as he was two years ago when he was elected over Governor Nathan L. Miller by 837,000. Four years ago Smith lost to Miller in the Harding-Coolidge landslide by 77,000 but then he ran more than a million votes ahead of his ticket.

In more than a dozen places upstate Colonel Roosevelt rolled up a larger vote than Miller did when he defeated Smith, but in other spots he ran below the Miller vote. Roosevelt's showing in the larger upstate cities was particularly surprising to many of the Republican leaders. They had figured he would run way ahead of Smith in the rural districts and the best they had hoped was that he would "hold down" the governor in half a dozen of the cities.

Changes in Cities.

Smith carried the city of Troy by 3,715, nearly 6,000 less than he did two years ago and approximately 500 more than in 1920 when he lost to Miller.

Schenectady, the home city of Lieutenant Governor Lunn, gave Roosevelt a plurality of 5,000 over Smith.

Two years ago Smith carried Poughkeepsie by 706 but yesterday Roosevelt carried it by 920.

Roosevelt made big inroads in the Smith vote in Glens Falls but Roosevelt carried the city by five votes. Two years ago Smith carried the city by 1,019.

CASES BEFORE JUDGE GROVES IN CITY COURT.

Oliver Foster, a negro, pleaded guilty to public intoxication in police court today before Judge Robert G. Groves and was fined $5.

Kenneth Elmendorf, a negro, arrested on complaint of Abram Basch, who claimed that Kenneth stole $5 from his pocket, was discharged when Basch announced he desired to withdraw the complaint.

Thomas Hanlon, a stranger in Kingston, arrested for public intoxication, was fined $6, but unable to pay was sent to jail for five days.

William Canale, arrested for public intoxication, paid a fine of $5.

DR. LEAVITT ACCEPTS

Y. M. H. A. DIRECTORSHIP

The Y. M. H. A. hold an interesting meeting Tuesday evening when a variety of business matters came up for discussion. Among the guests present were Dr. Leavitt, principal of the Hebrew School, and Charles Katz, director of the evening school. Dr. Leavitt has accepted a directorship in the Y. M. H. A., and his acceptance will mean much to the association and will be pleasing to the Jewish circles of the city.

Nation Elects Coolidge, Democrats Elect Smith and Lunn, County Republican

Calvin Coolidge Charles G. Davis

Results of Tuesday's election:

In the nation, President Coolidge and General Dawes were elected. Davis ran second and LaFollette third. The LaFollette influence will remain powerful.

In New York state, Governor Smith was re-elected by more than 100,000 plurality. Democrats claim that Lieutenant Governor Lunn also was elected. Republicans elected other state officials. The Republicans retain control of the Assembly and gain control of the Senate.

Harcourt J. Pratt, Republican, was elected Congressman in the Twenty-seventh District by over 10,000 plurality.

Arthur P. Bouton, Republican, was re-elected state senator in the twenty-ninth district.

In Ulster county, Republican majorities were given to all national, state and local candidates. Joseph M. Fowler was re-elected county judge; John H. Saxe, county clerk; George Suiter, coroner, without opposition. Millard Davis was elected assemblyman.

Kingston city gave majorities for all Republican candidates.

Detailed results will be found elsewhere in The Freeman.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 5.—President Coolidge has been elected to succeed himself by a popular majority that is probably unprecedented, and by a majority in the electoral college that has been surpassed but twice.

Majority of 113 Electors.

Late returns from doubtful states in the west this afternoon assured Coolidge and Dawes 379 electoral votes, a majority of 113. This figure was exceeded in 1912, when the Republican split allowed Wilson to roll up 435 and in 1920, when Harding polled 404.

May Exceed Harding Record.

In popular majority, Coolidge is expected to exceed the 7,000,000 mark established by Harding in 1920.

Up to this afternoon, five states had been considered doubtful, Arizona, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada and New Mexico.

Late returns put all but New Mexico in the Republican column. Davis appears to have carried New Mexico by a slight margin.

On the basis of these returns, Coolidge will have 379 votes in the college, Davis 139 and LaFollette 12—his native Wisconsin.

Doubt About Congress.

The only fly in the Republican ointment is the doubt about a clear cut majority in congress.

LaFollette's Failure.

The LaFollette question mark, which has so perplexed both Republican and Democratic leaders failed to be much of a question mark after 1 a. m. This morning it appeared the Wisconsin insurgent carried but one state—his own. He rolled up substantial popular votes in many states, but the size of these did not meet the expectations of his supporters.

States Carried by Coolidge.

At 8 a. m., with only a few states in doubt, President Coolidge seemed assured of a vote in the electoral college in excess of 350, against a necessary figure of 266.

On the basis of returns at that hour, Coolidge carried California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming. These appeared to be certain and they provided an electoral vote of 357. There was some doubt as to Missouri and North Dakota, but the Republicans claimed them and their claims appeared to be warranted.

States Voting for Davis.

Davis carried Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, a total of 136 electoral votes.

These five states appeared still in doubt: Arizona, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada and New Mexico, a total of 25 electoral votes.

Coolidge Swept East.

Coolidge and Dawes swept through the conservative, industrial and financial east like a hurricane. Pluralities were rolled up in the larger states like New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Michigan that were keenly reminiscent of 1920. In some states it appeared probable this morning that the record-breaking figures of 1920 would even be eclipsed by those of 1924.

Coolidge Wave Sweeps Westward.

Every state east of the Mississippi river and north of the line of the marks the solid south, save Wisconsin, dropped into the Republican column. So great was the momentum gained in this eastern avalanche that the Coolidge-Dawes ticket crossed the river and started like a prairie fire through the great grain and stock belt that stretches westward to the Rockies, sweeping everything before it by large majorities, save Minnesota and Missouri.

States Considered Doubtful.

Of the five states that were still considered doubtful this morning, two were considered doubtful as between Coolidge and Davis. They were Arizona and New Mexico. Three were considered doubtful as between Coolidge and LaFollette, Montana, Nevada and Minnesota.

Republican leaders were inclined to claim all five of them, for Coolidge, but preferred to wait for later returns before making positive assertions. They were so overjoyed at the magnitude of the Coolidge victory, which far exceeded the expectations of most of them, that they were sleepily generous in the dim light of the early morning.

LaFollette Weakness a Surprise.

There were two outstanding surprises in the results, so far as the national ticket was concerned. One was the weakness of the LaFollette strength in places where it had been expected he would be dangerously strong, the Dakotas and Iowa. The other was the weakness of Davis in the states bordering on the solid south. Apparently the Democratic candidate carried only one of these, Oklahoma, losing Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware.

Labor Can't Be Delivered.

LaFollette's strength in the great industrial and factory centers of the east was disappointing to his followers. To both Republican and Democratic leaders, the returns indicated that organized labor did not rally to the independent ticket as solidly as its leaders had hoped. Labor apparently did not Tuesday as it has always done in national elections, divided along the usual party lines.

To old party leaders this spelled a reaffirmation of that political maxim that "labor cannot be delivered en bloc by its leaders." The American Federation of Labor did this year what it never before attempted to do—endorsed a particular candidate and got behind him—and the result was a greatly increased popular vote for that candidate, but by no stretch of the imagination, solid labor voting.

LaFollette's Knife Too Edged.

The results disclosed, too, that LaFollette's knife was too edged, that instead of well high wrecking the Republican party, as did Roosevelt's Progressive candidacy, he cut about evenly into both old parties.

In the east, he hurt the Democrats far more than he did the Republicans by taking away the normal Democratic labor vote which Wilson always relied on. This was evidenced particularly in such industrial states as Rhode Island and New Jersey.

In the west LaFollette hurt the Republicans more than the Democrats. He took his own state, Wisconsin, entirely out of the Republican electoral column, and he cut heavily into such normally Republican states as Minnesota, Wyoming, Iowa, and the two Dakotas.

Third Party's Future Uncertain.

The future of the LaFollette-independent movement was the subject of keen speculation today wherever politicians were gathered for post-mortems. It was LaFollette's hope to roll up a tremendous popular vote to form the nucleus of a new permanent third party in American politics.

Whether, after a sober study and survey of the returns, he and his supporters will now decide that the popular vote polled justifies the attempt at this time, they alone can say.

LaFollette Still Powerful.

LaFollette, despite the disappointment of his showing on Tuesday, remains a powerful and potent figure at Washington. The new senate will be confronted with the same condition that prevails in the present senate—the balance of power held by the Wisconsin insurgent and his friends. Early this morning, it appeared the Republicans have picked up a few senate seats, but not enough to assure President Coolidge of a dependable working majority.

There was this factor, however, to consider. Some of LaFollette's associates in the present senate have supported him and his policies on the theory that the country was with him, as revealed by the 1918 election, which saw the overthrow of Republican control in both houses. Now, by the same token, the country is with the Coolidge-Dawes ticket, as evidenced by a victory of landslide proportions. Whether, in this situation, some of those who have wavered between being independent and being regular in the present congress will consider it their duty to be regular, remains to be seen.

Klan Wins and Loses.

Another revelation afforded by the results was the dominance of the Ku Klux Klan in some parts of the country. The Klan won some clean victories. It encompassed the defeat of Jack Walton for the senate in Oklahoma, it elected its candidate for governor, Ben S. Paulen in Kansas, it elected the entire Republican state ticket in Indiana. In each of these contests the defeated candidates were openly and avowedly anti-Klan.

On the other side of the ledger, the victory of Miriam A. ("Ma") Ferguson in the governorship fight in Texas, was a clearcut anti-Klan victory.

Coolidge Gives Pledge to Nation

Expresses Thanks to Those Who Contributed to Result and Dedicates Himself to Service of His Country and Countrymen—No Pledge Except to Serve Them.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 5.—President Coolidge pledged himself anew today to the promotion of the welfare of the American people.

The pledge was made in a formal statement thanking the electorate for the endorsement of his administration and for returning him to the White House by an overwhelming majority.

"It does not seem possible to me," the president said, "to make an adequate expression concerning the presidency of the United States. No other honor equals it, no other responsibility approaches it. When it is conferred by an overwhelming choice of the people and vote of the electoral college these are made all the greater. I can only express my simple thanks to all those who have contributed to this result and plainly acknowledge that it has been brought to pass through the work of a divine providence of which I am but one instrument. Such powers as I have I dedicate to the service of all my country and of all of my countrymen. In the performance of the duties of my office, I could not ask for anything more than the sympathetic consideration which my fellow Americans have always bestowed upon me. I have no appeal except to the common sense of all the people. I have made no pledge except to serve them. I have no object except to promote their welfare."

The president's statement was issued following an exchange of telegrams between himself and John W. Davis, the defeated Democratic candidate, in which Davis congratulated Mr. Coolidge and expressing the hope that the new Coolidge administration would inure to the welfare of the country.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 5.—John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for the presidency, conceded the election of President Coolidge today in a telegram which he sent to the president.

Davis also sent a message to Governor Al Smith congratulating him on his victory and wired Governor Bryan congratulating him on "his great fight."

After sending the telegram to President Coolidge, conceding his defeat, Davis made the following statement:

"The results of the election speak for themselves and the decisive character renders comment or explanation unnecessary. I accept the outcome without any vain regret or bitterness and it is my earnest hope that the administration of President Coolidge may prove successful and beneficial to the country.

"So far as I am personally concerned, I am unshaken in my faith in the principle and ideals professed by the Democratic party. They will never lack for defenders. To those who supported me so loyally throughout the campaign, I am most grateful than I can say and I am glad to march on with them as a comrade in the ranks, toward the inevitable triumph of the principles in which we believe. Greater than any transient success is the welfare of our common country and to this it is the duty and privilege of every citizen to contribute, whether in office or out of it."

Davis sent his messages of congratulations to the president this morning from the home of Frank L. Polk, where he spent the night.

The Democratic nominee ate a hearty breakfast and showed no great effects over his disappointment.

He told his friends he intended to "rest for a while month" at some southern resort where the golf is good.

Wife Congratulates Mrs. Coolidge.

Mrs. Davis joined her husband in acclaiming the Coolidge victory. She telegraphed her congratulations to Mrs. Coolidge. The telegram read: "Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, the White House, Washington, D. C. 'Please let me congratulate you on your husband's victory.' 'ELLEN B. DAVIS.'"

Davis to Smith.

In his message to Governor Smith, Davis telegraphed: "Sincere congratulations on your richly deserved victory. As a man and a Democrat I am proud of you."

Also Telegraphs Brother Charley.

His message sent Bryan at Lincoln, Neb., read:

"In this hour of defeat let me thank you again for your assistance and support. We have made a clean and open fight and can accept the result without bitterness."

With the sending of the telegrams the Davis campaign was officially closed. The New York headquarters at the Belmont Hotel, where his "board of strategy" directed the Davis drive for three months, was deserted except for employes clearing out desks. There was an air of deep gloom, tinged somewhat with surprise.

Also there were hundreds of persons hunting new jobs with the bright hope of Washington plums thrown into the discard for another four years.

Soldier Stole

An Auto Here

West Point Soldier Informed Judge Groves He Was Drunk at Time and Did Not Know What He Was Doing—Hearing Adjourned to Friday Morning.

Morris Weinstein, a soldier stationed at the West Point Military reservation, was arraigned before Judge Robert G. Groves in police court this morning on a charge of grand larceny in the first degree in stealing an automobile on Railroad avenue owned by Joseph Slater of this city.

"I was drunk at the time and did not know what I was doing," Weinstein informed the court. He asked if he could not be allowed to plead guilty to taking the auto, but was informed it was a case for the grand jury to decide and that the court had no jurisdiction in the matter.

It was finally decided to adjourn the hearing to Friday morning and the hearing was fixed at 10 o'clock. Chief of Police Wood will get in touch with the military authorities at West Point to day and notify them of Weinstein's arrest here.

Tuesday evening Mr. Slater had parked his car on Railroad avenue in front of a lunch room, and while eating saw the car start away. He gave the alarm and Officers Urban Healey and John Schick commandeered a car from the Charles Van Etten garage and gave chase.

Weinstein drove down Broadway and as the pursuing car began to overhaul him he suddenly reversed the power at Abel street, and as a result the two cars collided. Weinstein when the cars collided jumped out but was caught after a chase.

Cold Results in Carelessness

So A. A. A. Advises Motorists in Cold Weather to Keep Warm and Make Frequent Stopovers for Hot Drinks and Food.

By Telegraph to The Freeman
Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—
"Keep warm and be safe," says the Touring and Transportation Board of the American Automobile Association in a special bulletin issued from headquarters here today as a warning to motorists planning extensive late fall and early winter tours throughout sections of the country where winter driving is becoming the rule rather than the exception.

The A. A. A. Board points out that carelessness in cold weather driving is largely the result of being cold. "Keep as warm as possible when touring in cold weather and it will be easier to observe the simple rules of caution," it urges.

According to the A. A. A. a large percentage of winter-time accidents are preventable, warning devices being the preventive.

"These should include suitable clothing, particularly warm gloves," says the bulletin. "Too many drivers are handicapped by numb fingers during their winter trips, so that if they are called upon to crank the motor in an emergency, dim the headlights or shift gears they are at a loss."

"It is foolhardy to attempt to make great mileage without sufficient stopovers for hot drinks and food. It requires more energy to fight the elements in winter, and drivers cannot afford to feel that because they are stimulated by the snappy air they can endure more strenuous driving."

"Keeping warm is the first rule in keeping safe in cold weather. Closed cars are proving their value in this connection, but even here the motorist must take definite precautions against subjecting himself to unnecessary exposure, and thus to unnecessary hazards."

FRUIT GROWERS ACT TO STABILIZE MARKETING.

Too high overhead, too much centralization, too much pooling were the chief obstacles to a full success in cooperatively marketing fruit in western New York, according to M. C. Burritt, a director of the Western New York Fruit Growers' Cooperative Packing Association, Inc., speaking at the extension conference at the College of Agriculture recently.

All this is being changed, Mr. Burritt said. The association has cut its overhead from $75,000 a year to $25,000; it is rapidly decentralizing and assuming its rightful position as a loosely federated organization of locals; it has abandoned the five year contract for the present and is contemplating optional pooling spring and fall. These drastic measures, the speaker said, will not become fully effective within a year

"While the primary and ultimate aim of the association is to get better prices for the growers, if we can be the means of setting up a rigid and enforced government inspection of fruit in western New York and so keep junk off the market, we will have done a very good job," Mr. Burritt said.

Street Frock for Chic Summer Garb

Gay Little Outfits Add to Charm of Well-Dressed Young Women.

The importance of the summer street frock is very great and it should be chosen with great care, advises a fashion writer. Such a frock, if it belongs to the city girl, will be in constant use for the next few months, so that it must at once be up-to-date and avoid extremes. It must also be smart and have the formal aspect of the costume and it must, above all, be cool.

Navy blue or black is suggested as the wisest choice of color, while crepe satin, crepe de chine or crepe roma are satisfactory materials for such a frock.

This season the scarf has come to rescue us from our bondage to the summer fur piece, so long a necessary though uncomfortable accessory to the summer street frock of the well-dressed woman.

The crepe dress is permissible this season only for the young, slender woman; an interesting model has a small circular cape reaching to the waistline and a circular front flare to the skirt. Its neckline is bateau; buttons, which are so fashionable this spring, fasten the cape to the shoulders and adorn the sleeves and the front of the bodice. If one feels the need for a touch of white near the face any one of the simple pique collars now procurable may be used and the scarf left floating. This frock would be best in the most youthful cambric mentioned, crepe de chine, and is simple enough in its lines and detailed enough in the drawing to be easily copied by any reliable sewing woman.

The scarf dress also may be made of crepe de chine and piped in any color you choose. Lacquer red is the smartest shade this season. This frock is beltless and its distinction lies in the detail of buttons and piping. The pockets are piped and buttoned with tailored buttonholes, and the narrow bands on the sleeves are buttoned on in the same manner. The scarf may be either piped or banded in red. A dress of this sort may be copied by a sewing woman, and the buttonholes made by a tailor to add the little professional touch so desirable in such a frock.

A dress of crepe satin uses the smart tunic idea. The top of the undershirt should be made of China silk for economy's sake and to avoid bulk. A wide band of the reverse side of the material finishes the tunic, and a narrow roll of the same finishes the neckline. This is an excellent coat model and is becoming to the average woman. It is also a simple model for copying purposes.

Rubber Now Made Into Many Useful Articles

Rubber has been so long made into articles of utility that it is difficult to dissociate it from things designed only for service. But some really charming novelties are being done in rubber, or are lined with rubber. Tea aprons and "studio" aprons are as daintily decorated with hand painting or stenciling as if they were of silk. Toilet cases, handkerchief laundry bags, bags to hold cold cream towels, traveling cases and sponge bags are shown in pretty cretonnes and silks, flowered, figured in stripes, plaids, checks. These are lined with rubber of a fine, silky texture, in white or a light color, and are decorative as well as practical.

Bright Sweaters and Scarfs

Just the thing for the country club and general sports wear, are sweaters that are made of the sheerest wool and are knitted in a variety of colors and stitches. These rainbow-hued sweaters are matched by long scarfs of the same and the effect is delightfully fresh and summery.

Hindoo Scarfs of Airy Gauze

Another version of the popular scarf is shown in a group imported from India. These scarfs are of gauze with gold stripes or bands at the ends. They come in the most beautiful colors.

Necklet of Rosebuds

One debutante is wearing a floral necklet, patterned after the floral armlets which for some time have been in vogue. The necklet, of tiny silk rosebuds and frosted leaves, is four rows deep and worn snugly about the throat.

To Youth: Begin Shaving Right

Don't experiment. Blades that dull are a nuisance. Have a super-keen blade for every shave. Only one razor gives it. The Valet AutoStrop Razor strops its own blades.

Dainty Crepe de Chine Liked for Summer Wear

Corn-colored crepe de chine is trimmed with a collar of ecru shadow lace and pearl buttons and combined with a crystal plaited skirt.

Ribbon Counters Full of Charming Patterns

Once one had to hunt for the ribbon counter, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. Now one walks between huge walls and pyramids of ribbon. The magic word "French" attaches to a great assortment of ribbons that are displayed in many of the important shops and are seen as one of the decorative details on some of the latest summer frocks. Moire, in black, white and all the colors, a ribbon having a brilliant sheen, is one of the newest and most popular. An absolute novelty is metal moire. This is a veritable Queen of Sheba bit of beauty in ribbons, in bright gold and silver, with the weave distinctly and gracefully watermarked.

Some of the handsomest of these have one side of plain gilt, the other watered, the old-time name by which moire antique or "moire" was known. These luscious ornate ribbons cost a pretty penny and are to be had in any width. Their richness of quality makes them most suitable sash-wide, as they are introduced in girdles, bands, vests and in numberless other ways in some of the most elaborate French models.

Another of the new ribbons is double-faced, one side of satin, the other of gold or silver tissue, one of them sufficiently rich to give importance to the costume. They are shown, too, in narrower widths and are most successfully used in little frills or bands on sheer summer gowns, a sufficient trimming in themselves; on hats, blouses, parasols, too, and in many other ways unique and charming.

A practical and dainty ribbon novelty is the draw-string ribbon, in narrow and medium widths, having on one edge a strong thread by which the ribbon may be drawn in gathers to form little ruffles. There are striped, checked, flowered and figured patterns, wide enough to form the bodice of an evening gown, narrow enough to make a wrist-watch band. Some are double-faced, some of metal and silk combined. Quite the daintiest little trimming ribbons are those of black satin brocaded with flowers in color. A quaint style is the taffeta ribbon scalloped at one edge, cord-bound and finished with the draw-thread at the other edge.

Nature's Great Gas Tank

A natural gas tank with a greater capacity than any tank that man has ever made is in use at Springfield, N. Y. In fact, it is said to have a capacity 20 times greater than any tank at present in use. It is a big hole in the ground, with some peculiar formations which makes it a very secure holder. It was formerly the center of a natural gas field, but the field was exhausted, but this great holder is now used as a storage tank for the gas from other wells. It is pumped in during the summer months and drawn upon during the winter when the demands for gas are greater. This hole has a storage capacity of 400,000,000 cubic feet.

District Gives Pratt Over 10,000

Harcourt J. Pratt was elected congressman in the Twenty-seventh district on Tuesday by a plurality of more than 10,000, over his Democratic opponent, Former Postmaster William C. DeWitt of Kingston, and the Socialist candidate, Boris Fogelson.

Mr. Pratt carried each of the five counties comprising the district. Ulster county gave him the biggest plurality. The results of the other counties were not tabulated up to the time The Freeman went to press, but the pluralities for Mr. Pratt, as announced by the county chairman of the respective counties, round numbers, were as follows:

Columbia	2,300
Greene	2,200
Schoharie	1,000
Sullivan	1,000
Ulster	4,600
Total	11,100

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Bob Ott and his Musical Comedy Company played two capacity audiences at the Opera House Tuesday with his lively musical hit "Me For Ma." The play for today is "My Dad," another snappy musical show filled with jolity and song. The play was written to make people laugh and judging from Mr. Ott's last two plays this one is going to be more hilarious than anything he has yet attempted. The song numbers are new and catchy. The play Thursday will be "Free Love." Seats are on sale for the entire engagement. The performances are twice daily at 2:30 and 8:15.

At the Keeney Theater this evening, "A Son of Sahara," will be screened. At the performances the first two days, large audiences were pleased with this production.

Hoyt's Revue will have its last presentation at The Orpheum tonight. The closing bill in a new play "Bozo the Tramp." William de Mille production "The Bedroom Window" will also have its last showing. Corse Payton and his Stock Company come to the Orpheum Theatre November 6th, 7th and 8th, presenting the comedy success "Three Rooms and Bath" with the usual picture program. The same company that was recently seen here in "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse" will be seen in this comedy. This is one of Mr. Payton's comedy successes which he has produced in all the theatres in New York, including his own theatre in Brooklyn. The play will be given with special scenery and stage settings.

At the Auditorium tonight "The Shepherd King," portrayed by a cast of artists, headed by Violet Mercereau. A magnificent screen drama based on the celebrated stage classic.

A production actually filmed in the Holy Lands and showing many places of historical interest.

Closing Zion Entertainment.

On Friday evening, the wind-up of the entertainments of the rally will be held at the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church. The girls of the Willing Workers class will give the entertainment. A harvest/home festival will be held in connection with the program, which will be published later.

Children's Social at Ulster Park. A children's social will be held Friday evening in I. O. O. F. Hall at Ulster Park. A small admission fee will be charged, which will cover the cost of refreshments, for which no charge will be made. Anyone attending who is not properly costumed as a child will be fined. All are invited.

Auto Hit a Pole.

Herman Ratolowsky reported to the police Tuesday that his auto, driven by Benjamin Sherman, had collided with a pole at Broadway and West O'Reilly street, badly damaging the car. He claimed that another car had crowded his car off the road.

Has Long Made Music

Pretty Women
wherever you look in France

By Edna Wallace Hopper

All the dirt, grease, grime and dead skin come out with it. My Facial Youth will bring you new conceptions of what a clean skin means. The cost is 75c.

White Youth Clay
A new-type clay, white, refined and dainty. Vastly different from the crude and muddy clays so many have employed. The final result of 20 years of scientific study.

It purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. Removes the causes of blackheads and blemishes. Brings a rosier, afterglow which amazes and delights. Combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores.

No girl or woman can afford to omit it. It multiplies beauty. And many women seem to drop ten years after one application. My White Youth Clay costs 50c and $1.

My Hair Youth
The cause of my luxuriant hair, thick and silky, finer far than 40 years ago. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, and never a touch of gray.

A concentrated product combining many ingredients. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp. There it combats all the afflicted hair roots. It tones and stimulates. No man or woman will omit it when they see what Hair Youth does. The cost is 50c and $1 with eyedropper.

All druggists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's beauty helps. Edna Wallace Hopper, 638 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

My Youth Cream
My Youth Cream is a remarkable creation, combining many factors. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best helps science gave me to foster and protect the skin.

It comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. I use it as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. My velvet complexion shows what that cream can do.

The cost is 60c per jar.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which I also owe to France. Great beauty experts the world over now advise this formula, but their price is too high for most women.

It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service)

LONDON'S IDEA OF LEGION BASEBALL

A recent baseball game played by members of the London post of the American Legion brought forth the following comment in the London Daily Herald:

"That the American Legion should have chosen the Chelsea football ground for their baseball rendezvous reflects their sense of propriety. The game should be called 'gorified rounders.' One ceases to wonder why the adjectives 'fierce' and 'hulky' are so popular in the American vocabulary after witnessing a 'ball game.'"

"To the uninitiated the most unfortunate man on the field seems to be the club-slinger. He goes in carrying a club not unlike a pick handle. No sooner has he taken up his position than the 'catcher' behind him, feeling comparatively safe in a mask and breast-protector, tells him what a bloody, decomposed player he is, and the 'pitcher' who delivers the ball, being well out of reach of the club, keeps up a continual stream of unkind remarks, at the same time executing a kind of war dance, and ends by slugging the ball at the club-slinger as hard as he can throw it.

"Then the spectators join in. Should the club-slinger slug the ball out of the grounds and run round the three bases, all his sins are forgiven and he is a 'sure go getter,' but should he miss the ball altogether he is a 'wall-eyed mutt,' and advised to borrow a door or get a pair of 'horn rims.' This unfortunate club-slinger has many ways of escape. He can be thrown out, run out, caught stealing or talked out. Many times the 'pitcher' tries to knock him out by hitting him with the ball.

"The 'top-notch' club-slingers in America are reported to draw salaries equaling those of English cabinet ministers. This may be due to the cost of life insurance premiums."

FIND JOHNSON IS ORPHANS' FRIEND

Orphans of soldiers of the World War have found in Dr. O. G. Johnson, of Fostoria, Mich., a devoted and far-seeing friend—the sort of friend who makes his interest count for the maximum in good works. Doctor Johnson who is now manager and medical director of the American Legion at Fostoria, has been connected with the development of that haven of refuge for the war orphans since the inception of the idea which found expression in it.

After the Michigan department in 1922 approved the idea which was conceived by Mark T. McKee, the Seventh Michigan district sought a site for the billet. Doctor Johnson was chairman of the committee appointed to raise funds for its purchase. Donations of $11,500 were secured and the grounds were bought. The department accepted them.

Through the efforts of Dr. Johnson who is a state senator, and of Senator Ganser, the latter of Bay City, Mich., a bill appropriating $50,000 to be used by the Legion in construction work was passed by the state legislature in 1923. Building operations were started soon after.

Dr. O. G. Johnson.

The billet was formally dedicated recently, and there are now under its sheltering care 27 children.

Doctor Johnson enlisting on July 12, 1917, was ordered overseas 17 days later. He was placed in command of Saumur Artillery School hospital at Saumur, France. When the hospital was disbanded on February 6, 1918, he was ordered to Base Hospital 103 at Dijon. He returned with the hospital and was discharged on August 26, 1919.

The post of the Legion at Fostoria was organized by Doctor Johnson. He has been active in its work and in that of the state department since that time.

Unique and Impressive Memorial Is Unveiled

Perhaps one of the most unique and impressive memorial monuments ever unveiled was dedicated by the American Legion of Manchester, Massachusetts, recently. The American Legion monument at Manchester does not glorify war, it shows it stark and terrible, but as the crucible from which evolves the dawn of a new and brighter day. This is done through two medallions appearing on opposite sides of the monument. One called "Night" pictures a skeleton hanging on the barbed wire before the trenches, every line making it seem to swing and rattle as the winds play about it. Beneath the skeleton are the words "Lest We Forget." On the opposite side of the monument is a medallion called "Dawn." There brother has met brother with gripped palms while the sun of a new era is illumining the world, and in the clouds, depleted through the forms of naked babes the spirit of a generation yet unborn proclaims the new era and the ideals for which the World War was fought.

Docked for Lost Time; Will Try to Change Law

At a meeting of the American Legion at Lowell, Mass., recently, a movement was set on foot to change the existing city ordinance whereby city employees who observe Memorial day by refraining from work on that day are "docked" to the effect that employees may observe the day without loss of pay. Several veterans, who did not work on Memorial day out of respect to their departed buddies, had their pay "docked" by the city as a result. The Legion sought the advice of Department Judge Advocate Joseph M. Bartlett, who advised that the city acted within its rights under the law, whereupon the local post took steps to amend the law.

To Aid Tuberculosis Victims

Convalescent homes for tubercular veterans in New Jersey will be placed under the direction of a central committee of Legionnaires, if plans under consideration are adopted. Accommodations for tubercular victims in arrested stages will be provided at the Huntaburg convalescent home conducted by the Legion, the medical advisory staff has decided.

Ship Struck by Meteor

In 1908 the sailing ship Ellipse, on a voyage from England to San Francisco, was struck by a meteor, crashed through the deck and through the whole fabric of the vessel, making a hole through which the water poured.

TROOPS PUT DOWN K. K. K. RIOTING

Twelve men were wounded, nine by gunshot, in open warfare in Niles, O., between Ku Klux Klansmen and Knights of the Flaming Circle. The rioting ended only when State troops were rushed into the city. The rioting started during a scheduled parade of the hooded K. K. K., through the streets. This photograph shows members of the Klan being sworn in as police of their own forces in the presence of their King Kleagle, (at right).

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, Nov. 4.—Mr and Mrs Howard Atkins and son of Ardona and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Atkins of Clintondale spent Sunday with their parents in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Denniston and son, Wilmoit, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis at Ridgewood, N. J.

Miss Alta Wilkins was a recent visitor at the home of her parents. The Girls Club will meet with Mrs. Harry Birch on Saturday afternoon, November 8.

Mrs. Isaac Sutton and daughter visited with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McKinstry on Wednesday of last week. Kinstry of New Paltz, of daughter, Mrs. Arthur DeGraft, of Hyde Park, spent the week end at Ell Mackey's.

At the communion services last Sunday morning, Miss Mabel Hedger and Miss Della Brown united with the church on confession of faith and Mrs. Roy Denniston, Mrs. Ira Thompson and Mrs. Leland Van Kleeck by letter. Charles Douglas, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Garrison and Donald, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fries were baptised.

A parlor meeting of the W. O. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Isaac Sutton on Friday evening, November 7. Everyone welcome.

Graft Vegetables

Experiments in the grafting of vegetables and flowers by French botanists have resulted in the creation of new species, have prolonged the lives of many plants, and have interbred the perfume of many flowers. Potatoes that grow on branches above the ground are among the results of the experiments.

Horn of Ripon. Ripon, England, keeps up a custom 1,000 years old. Every night a "wake man," attired in official costume, appears before the mayor's house and blows three solemn notes on the "horn of Ripon."

Horn Beetles Strong. The horn beetle easily lifts twenty times its own weight. Had humans proportionate strength we might see a young girl going home from her music lesson carrying a grand piano under her arm.

Marry Earlier in Country. The country girl is able to put one over on her city cousin in at least one respect. According to statistics, the country and small town girls marry at an earlier age on the average than do the girls who dwell in cities.

Use FREEMAN advertising regularly and conservatively and results will surely follow.

It Certainly Was Good News!

NOT all the good news is in the news columns. Women, especially, find important events—important because they solve her personal problems—in space such as this:

For here she learns of the remarkable new laundry starch, LINIT—the same starch which thousands of housewives have welcomed as the perfect starch. For LINIT penetrates and preserves fabrics, makes even ordinary cotton goods look and feel like linen and is so easy to use.

Ironing becomes a pleasant task, and your garments have a soft, smooth, even finish when starched with LINIT. And because LINIT eliminates lint, fabrics stay clean and fresh longer. Try LINIT once, and you will never go back to old-fashioned starches.

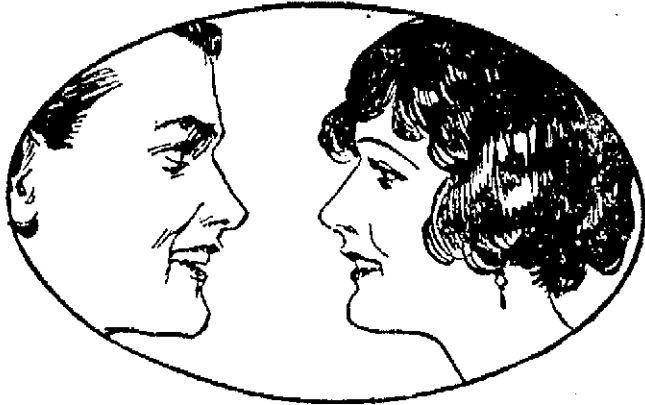

Linit is sold by all grocers—10c.

Exporting Ulster Apples Again

Ben Davis Apples Grown in Southern Ulster Being Shipped to South America—Europe Takes Light Crop of Keiffer Pears.

Ulster county fruit is being exported to foreign countries for the first time since the world war, and for the first time in history it is being shipped to South American markets. The apples now being shipped to the Spanish Americans are mostly of the Ben Davis variety.

The export movement began last week, according to the Marlborough Record, when the Fruit Exchange began buying the product of the Marlborough-Milton fruit belt, and at the end of the week 3,800 barrels had been shipped to New York city for export. The Fruit Exchange is still shipping quantities of fruit to New York for the same purpose, and 1,200 more barrels are expected to be shipped.

In addition to the shipments by the Fruit Exchange, a fewburgh commission merchant has been buying Ben Davis apples for shipment to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and has taken the entire output of the W. Y. Velle farm. The Ben Davis apples have been bringing from $3.50 per barrel up.

New England has been taking a considerable quantity of southern Ulster fruit recently, the principal shipments being Baldwins, which have been selling around $4.25 to $4.75 a barrel. The crop of Delicious has been light this year, and the price ranges around $7 to $8 a barrel.

McIntosh apples in fancy packages have been bringing good prices in the Southern Ulster fruit belt. When carefully graded, packed in paper cartons, four of which are packed in a barrel, they have been selling as high as $16 a barrel. The cartons contain 96 apples of the 3 1/4 inch size, or 102 of the 2 3/4 inch size. Most of the apple growers, however, who could do so, have been holding their McIntosh apples for higher prices.

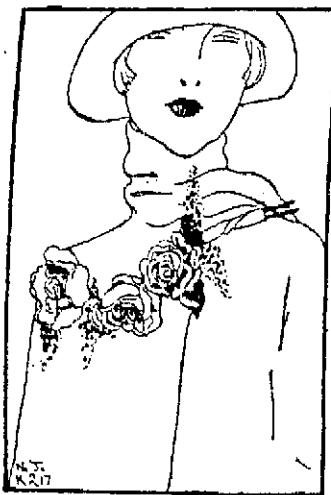

England and the other countries of Europe have been taking the Southern Ulster crop of Keiffer pears, but the pear crop in general has been poor, and Keiffer pears scarce. Some of the latter crop has been placed in storage.

Of the grape crops, probably the largest was gathered on the farm of Mrs. M. Swartz and son, who occupy the old E. J. Wyant farm at Marlborough. They harvested 130 tons of Concord and 15 tons of Bacchus grapes. The farm has always produced a big crop. In the Mt. Zion neighborhood, the Fowler Brothers, with fifty acres under cultivation, harvested 110 tons.

EVEN FASHION HAS GONE IN FOR "NECKING."

By Eleanor Gunn.

After several seasons of ignoring the neckline, eliminating collars, eschewing necklaces, and having the neckline most unobtrusive, fashion has suddenly focused attention on this heretofore neglected part of the frock, and has piled decoration upon decoration upon it.

The necklace corsage, a rather extreme item among those to be listed, was noted at the Paris races: a chic Parisienne adding this colorful spray to a costume of Lanvin origin. The practice of wearing a corsage on the shoulder, or a boutonniere in the lapel, or pinned to one's fur, has met with enthusiastic response. Since winter clothes have become the order of the day, a bit of bright color is all the more appreciated.

The choker collar, plus a splashing bow at the side, is another consideration, and, of course, the choker necklace is almost uniform—all of which proves that the throat is to be emphasized and not ignored. The sable scarf, with its wide faile bow, is heralded as a spring mode, for with the advent of the winter coat, the separate neckpiece, of course, suffers a set-back, so many coats being literally supplied with fur at the throat.

GOOD WINTER MUSHROOM.

Abundant in Mild Weather—Surplus May Be Dried.

my Telegraph to The Freeman.
Geneva, N. Y., Nov. 5.—A common edible wild mushroom of excellent quality, known as the velvet-stemmed Collybia and abundant during October and November and during mild spells in the winter, is recommended by the botanist at the state experiment station here as a worthwhile addition to the winter diet. The mushroom is described as having a reddish yellow cap, white gills and a velvety brown stem, occurring in dense clusters on stumps, logs and buried wood. The caps may freeze and thaw several times during the winter without injury, it is said. An illustrated pamphlet telling about this mushroom and giving directions for its preparation and use as food may be had free of charge upon application to the station.

Preserving a Surplus.
"Owing to the fact that the velvet-stemmed Collybia grows in cold weather when other mushrooms are scarce, there is little danger of confusing it with poisonous species," says this authority. "For the same reason it is not often seriously infested with worms," but is sometimes attacked by a white mold and by slugs.

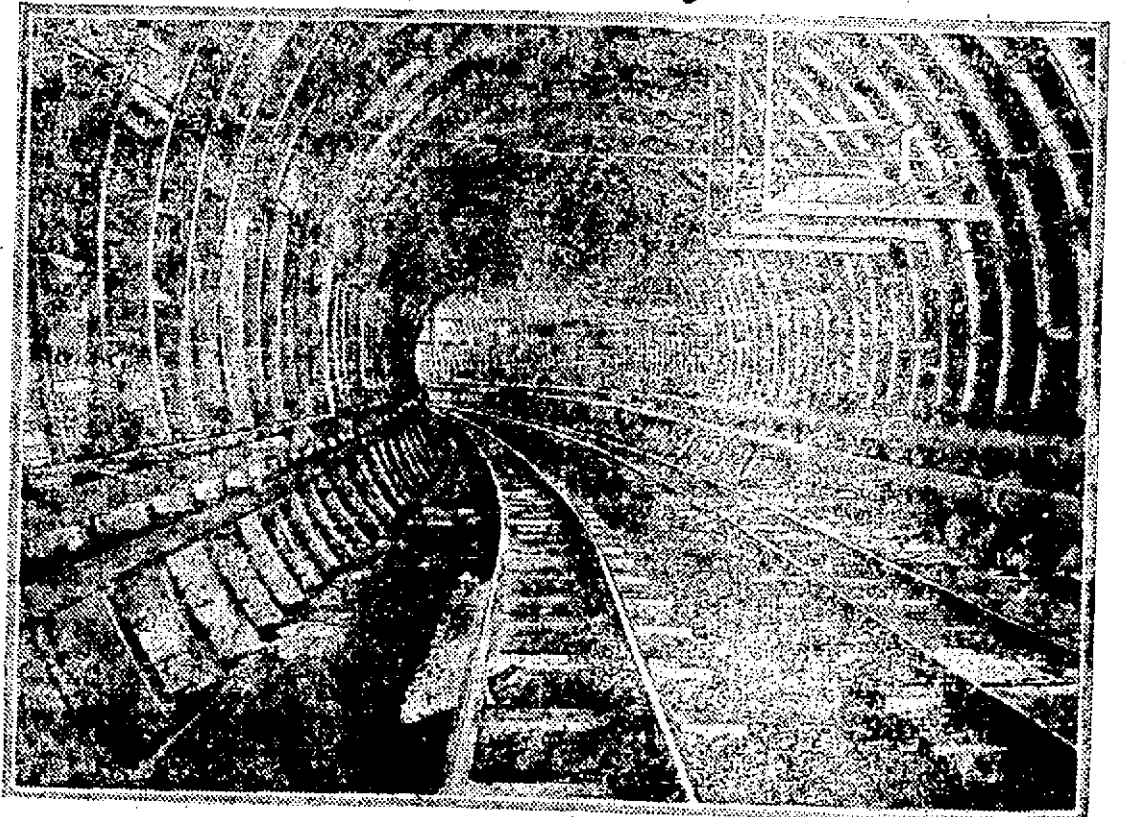

"In preparing the mushrooms for cooking, the stems should be removed, all adhering leaves and grass picked off and the caps washed. It is not necessary to peel the caps. A good way to cook this mushroom is to boil the caps thirty minutes and then fry them in butter, oilemargarin or bacon fat and season with salt and pepper.

"Any surplus which may be wanted for future use may be dried. For this purpose, reasonably clean caps should be selected, and the stems and adhering rubbish removed, but the caps should not be washed. Washed caps do not dry well and the washing should be postponed until just before the caps are to be cooked. The dried caps are able to absorb a large amount of moisture and will revive if placed in water for a short time before they are wanted for cooking."

Dynamite Blows Away Last Barrier of Great N. Y.-Jersey Traffic Tunnel

Interior view of New York-New Jersey vehicular tunnel showing curve under West Street

THIS greatest vehicular tunnel in the world has just been "holed through" under the waters of the Hudson River. The remaining wall of earth between the two bores of the north tube, one approaching from the New Jersey shore and one from the New York side was shattered this week by a dynamite blast. It is expected that all the work will be completed in 1926 and that the first motor vehicle will roll under the Hudson at that time.

This tunnel is regarded as one of the greatest engineering feats of all time. It is 9,250 feet long. The Hamburg vehicular tunnel which runs beneath the Elbe is 1,471 feet in length. The Blackwall tunnel, its length under the Thames, being in all 6,200 feet in length. The New York-New Jersey tunnel, it is estimated, will be able to take care of 17,000,000 vehicles annually.

The final dynamite blast was, in a sense, symbolical of the undertaking, for modern explosives occupied an important part in making the tunnel possible. The combination of the finest engineering skill, plus complicated and special tools, plus powerful dynamite, drove the borings forward with extraordinary speed.

This is the second tunnel, breaking world records for size, which has been built recently in the vicinity of New York. The other was the Shandaken tunnel, forming of New York City, and the longest tunnel in the world. This also was built by means of modern explosives. In fact dynamite has now been brought to such a stage of perfection that it is being used in greatly increasing quantities for all kinds of work. Through it, engineers are able to conquer apparently any obstacle in nature to the point of which dynamite is applicable. It has also proved the most economical agent in practically every kind of construction work where it has been used.

The execution of the great New York-New Jersey vehicular tunnel project, which will cost when completed $40,000,000, is in the hands of the Bridge and Tunnel Com-

Sea Farming For Shellfish

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 5.—The work that New York state is doing to improve the size and quality of its oyster crop by artificial propagation was told by William Firth Wells, biologist and sanitarian of the conservation commission in a five-minute radio talk from WGY, General Electric Co., Schenectady. The oyster industry is New York's most valuable fishery and has been declining for many years, because of inability to get a "set" of young oysters with any degree of certainty. The work that the conservation commission is doing to improve this situation was told by Mr. Wells. He said in part:

"Few are aware that oysters are a cultivated crop—that it takes several summers to make one swallow. The acres of carefully tended oyster farms are not visible under blue fathoms of sea water, and unless one has seen dredge boats piled high with thousands of bushels of this delicate product, his curiosity is unlikely to be aroused further than as to different ways of eating them. It may then come as a surprise to learn that oyster culture is more like farming than fishing."

"Seventy thousand acres of land, cultivated under water, bring to harvest New York's most valuable sea crop. All this ground is plowed and harrowed, planted and transplanted, cultivated and harvested. The relationship of the oyster dredge to the plow, the cultivator and the harvester, may seem distant, and truly the cultivation of animals in much the manner of plants appears strange; yet the oyster grower is a real planter."

"There is, however, one fundamental difference between agriculture and this branch of agriculture. For more than a thousand years that oysters have been cultivated the grower has had no control over his supply of seed. Imagine the state of agriculture if each season the farmer did not know how much seed he had to plant. While improvements in culture were made by furnishing places of attachment for the 'spat,' as the oysterman calls the baby oysters when they settle down, with all these aids the quantity of oysters has continued to diminish. 'Propagation as well as cultivation is necessary in any complete system of culture."

YELLOW FEVER WIPED OUT IN SOUTHERN COUNTRIES

Latest Troublesome Epidemic Reported in Brazil, but is Quickly Checked.

Washington.—Yellow fever was eradicated from Guayaquil in 1919 and from Peru in 1921. No cases have appeared in Nicaragua or Guatemala since 1921. A few cases were reported from British Honduras in 1921, but the epidemic was rapidly and easily controlled. In Mexico control operations were formally closed in November, 1923. No cases have been reported there since December, 1922, and the health authorities of the republic have announced that the disease has been stamped out. The disease has now been eliminated from the west coast of South America and from Mexico. On the southern continent there are but two known foci—one in Colombia, the other in northern Brazil—and active work is in progress in both, writes a bulletin of the Rockefeller foundation.

Early in 1923 several hundred cases were reported at Bucaramanga, the capital of the state of Santander in Colombia. On invitation from the Colombian government experts were sent by the board, the diagnosis of yellow fever was confirmed and control measures were instituted. The Stegomyia index was rapidly reduced and new cases ceased to appear; none has been reported since May, 1923. There is every reason to believe that the disease is under control. The survey of adjoining regions has been carefully and completely carried out and no new foci have been discovered.

A serious epidemic occurred in Ceara, Brazil, from 1921 to 1923, among both foreigners and Brazilians. Occasional cases have been reported from Recife, the capital of the state of Pernambuco. In Bahia the disease has been epidemic, and during 1923 a total of 157 cases were reported, with 30 deaths.

A feature of the Brazilian campaign has been the presence of Doctor Noguchi during part of the year. He carried on further research in the etiology of the fever, demonstrated the presence of Leptospira icteroides in Brazilian cases and showed again the value of the Pfeiffer reaction in diagnosis.

Elgin to Preserve Trees Over 1,000 Years Old

Elgin—Cedar trees that were good sized saplings during the first crusades, according to foresters, have been turned over to the Illinois Natural Study society of Elgin by the city, and will be cared for in perpetuity by the society. Only one other large grove of arbor vitae, or white cedars, is said to exist in the state.

Foresters estimate that many of the cedars in Elgin are more than 1,000 years old, and that very probably the present grove is a part of a large woods which was well developed in the Ninth or Tenth century. The trees belong to the same family of plants that include the famous cedars of Lebanon. Scientists say that, barring external accidents and disease, there is no reason why the trees should not live another 1,000 years.

The society, according to Carl F. Gronemann, president, plans to place a permanent label on every tree in the 121-acre park, and to maintain the grove as a scientific preserve and as a public show place.

Coax Alaska Hen to Lay With Electric Lighting

Anchorage, Alaska.—The domestic hen in the interior of Alaska, accustomed to take a layoff during the six months of night in winter, will have to do her steady shift at producing eggs, from all indications. Electricity has come to the aid of the Alaska poultry farmer. By the aid of light and heated quarters hens are being made to lay at a time when in the past the egg supply hardly has paid for feed.

Dairymen are constructing a type of chicken house with a basement in which a large air-tight heater is located. The coop is wired for electricity, so that it may be lighted during the "daylight" hours.

With a market of 58,000 cases of eggs and prices ranging from 75 cents to $1 a dozen in winter, the poultry industry promises to become one of the most remunerative in the government railroad belt.

98-Lb. Actress "Guilty" of Whipping Six-Foot Man

New York.—Vera Milne Hall, an actress weighing 98 pounds, was convicted in General Sessions court of whipping Edward S. Hurley, a six-foot motion picture agent, in his offices on September 8. Sentence was suspended.

Miss Hall admitted in court that she became excited when she visited Hurley's offices to make him retract allegedly disparaging statements about her, and that she lashed him with a three-foot dog leash. She declared, however, that she employed the leash only when Hurley made a gesture which led her to believe he was going to attack her.

To lay eggs

Your birds must get the nourishment they need!

FEED is one thing. Nourishment is another. The poor layer eats as much feed as the good layer—but she gets less nourishment out of it. She gets only enough to maintain her body, and the feed that might go to make eggs passes unused out of her system.

That is why your birds must get the last ounce of nourishment from their feed in order to lay the greatest possible number of eggs.

And they can—if you ferment their daily feed with Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast. It makes the feed easy to digest and assimilate, easy to turn quickly into bone, tissue, energy—and into eggs! And it supplies, in the highest concentrated form, the essential vitamin B, the vitamin of growth.

THE ICE BOX

"I never let myself get overheated and excited," the ice box said.

"That's because of me," said the boy, "the piece of ice which was in the ice box."

"True," said the ice box, "but still you would do badly if you weren't in me."

"You wouldn't have much fun if you were put on top of the kitchen stove, for example."

"You need me and I need you."

"But while I am not so much appreciated in the winter time I am very useful."

"I keep things so nice and cool. I help keep the ice cream frozen as it stands in its freezer waiting for the supper party to commence."

"Yes, you do have a good time," said the piano. "Now I am here so much of the time and I don't have any fun. I'm closed for hours at a time."

"No one plays me and I become so very, very quiet. It's not natural for a piano to be kept so quiet so much of the time."

"Well," said the big chair, "suppose you were sat upon all the time how would you like that?"

"It wouldn't be nice for a person to be sat upon all the time," said the dining-room rug, "but as you're a chair and as that is your business it is quite all right."

"I suppose so," said the armchair.

"Still I thought I'd have a grumble and I thought it would be a nice grumble to say I was tired."

"I don't know whether there are such things as nice grumbles," the rug said. "We don't know so very much. I don't pick up much knowledge, for example, though I do pick up my share of dirt."

"Goodness only knows where it comes from," the mistress of the house often says. "The children are pretty good about wiping their feet before they come into the house."

"Now I don't grumble," the rug continued, "and yet I am often benten."

"I enjoy being beaten as a matter of fact. I like to see the dirt come out of me."

"I feel as though I were saying to the dirt: 'Now will you be good and get out of the way!'"

"I feel, too, at such times as though I belonged to myself and not to the members of the Dirt and Dust brigade."

"Well," said the strainer in the kitchen, "I never get anywhere."

"Different things go through me and they see the coffee pot or the teapot or a bowl or a dish, but I never get anywhere at all."

"It's rather hard to be a strainer and yet it is splendid to think that I can keep back the coffee grounds and the tea leaves and can show them who is boss."

So the different things in the kitchen and dining room and living room were talking.

"Keep cool is what I say," the ice box continued. "Don't get excited. Don't get upset."

"Follow my example and keep cool. There is nothing like it in the world. Maybe it is nice to keep warm in the winter time, but even then no one wants to have the butter kept warm or the milk kept warm or the cream kept warm or the other things which I look after."

"It would be pretty hard on the butter if it didn't have me."

"Yes, I'm the nice cool ice box and this is my song:

I'm the ice box cool, the ice box cool
And I hold a big piece of ice,
I keep the food so fresh and good,
I make it taste so nice.
I'm the ice box cool, the ice box cool,
And I'll never change my ways;
I'll always see that food keeps well
Nights as well as days!

PNEUMONIA DEATH RATE CUT DOWN

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN

Editor of "HEALTH"

PNEUMONIA is one of the commonest and most fatal diseases. It is also the most important disease in the so-called "Respiratory Group" which, so far, modern science has been unable to prevent.

While pneumonia is more prevalent in the early spring and late fall, it occurs practically all the year round, in rural districts, in small towns, and large cities. It is particularly prevalent in old age; in fact, some medical authorities say that pneumonia is the natural termination of the life of the old person.

Those diseases caused by polluted water, such as cholera, typhoid fever and dysentery, and those carried by insects, such as yellow fever, typhus fever and malaria, have been very largely controlled. But the respiratory group, including pneumonia, bronchitis, influenza, and probably some forms of meningitis, is, so far as our present knowledge and methods go, beyond control.

If a disease cannot be prevented, the next best thing is to cure it as quickly and completely as possible. But here again difficulties arise.

Many different forms of serums and vaccines for the treatment of pneumonia have been proposed in the last twenty years. None of them has given satisfactory results. The New York City Health department, however, has announced the perfection of a new substance for the treatment of pneumonia which, it is hoped, will cut the death rate from 25 to 50 per cent.

This substance was discovered by Dr. Lloyd D. Felton of the department of preventive medicine of Harvard Medical school. It is a white, crystalline powder which Doctor Felton extracted from ordinary horse serum which has been used quite widely in the past in the treatment of influenza. It has been used in the treatment of 120 pneumonia patients without the slightest unfavorable effect. It is apparently free from the substances in other serums which sometimes cause chills, fever and other bodily manifestations.

The discovery of this substance is the result of five years of research and experimental work, inaugurated by Doctor Felton with the support of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company after the widespread influenza epidemic of 1918.

It is, of course, too early to make any definite statements regarding the value of this discovery, but the conditions under which the substance has been produced, the long period devoted to experimental work, and the results secured by the Boston and New York City Health departments all lead to the hope that it may prove an effective addition to present methods of treating pneumonia and to the reduction of the high mortality rate which has always prevailed in this disease.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

VIRGINIA.

Was the daughter of Virgilius, a citizen of Rome, and betrothed to Icilius, was seen by Appius Claudius, a Roman decemvir, as she was going to and returning from school. Captivated by her beauty, he resolved to obtain possession of her. He got an abandoned favorite to claim her as the daughter of one of his slaves, who had been placed for a period under the care of Virgilius. Though evidence was brought that this story was a fabrication, yet Appius Claudius, who himself filled the office of judge upon this occasion, decreed the young Roman beauty to be the property of his slave—and took.

Virgilius, under pretense of wishing to take a last farewell of his child, drew her aside from the wretches who surrounded her, and plunged a knife into her bosom while she was clinging around his neck. The soldiers and people, incensed against the cause of this sanguinary catastrophe, instantly dragged Claudius from the seat of justice, and an end was put to the decemviral power B. C. 450. The popular tragedy—"Virgilius," written by J. Sheridan Knowles, is a vivid portrayal of these events.

Chrysanthemum Show Now Open

Only Exhibitor is Valentin Burgevin, Inc., and Show is at the Burgevin Greenhouses and Store—Many Other Beautiful Flowers Also.

The annual Kingston Chrysanthemum Show is now at its height at the Burgevin greenhouses on Pearl street, the exhibition of blooms at the shop, corner of Main and Fair streets, being but an overflow therefrom.

While prize chrysanthemums are to be seen in several of the greenhouses, there are two or three houses where the giant-flowering and giant-growing plants, some of them actually six-footers, are like gorgeous diplomatic officials on dress parade. There are the Timothy Eatons, creamy white, and the Yellow Eatons, the living globes of sunshine. The Mrs. W. H. Chadwick is large, white and fringed; the Eugenia is a beautiful double of pink; a plump, bronzy one with curling petals is called the Beauty; the Gaston Quineaux is a variety of magenta, while the Mary Mason is a bloom of feathery gold and red. The Monstrous well lives up to its name in size and it is a soft yellow, curly flower. The Robert Pulling is another, big, clear yellow flower, while the six-foot Earl Schenker is a rich watercolor color. One of the most exquisite flowers is the Louise Pickett, large and fluffy, shading from white to palest pink. The Orange Queen is well named. Among the deeper ones the Wells Late is worth looking for, and an especially rich chrysanthemum is the Ruth Tromp, old gold in color. The William Wait is Mother-of-Pearl-like in its shadings from flesh color to pale orange. Another of the giant reds bears the name W. S. Stevens, while a lovely lemon-yellow one is called the Yellow Turner. The Anglesby is a soft shrimp pink and there are yellow, white and pink Ivory Chrysanthemums.

However, all of the chrysanthemums to delight the eye are not of these more formal varieties. There are the "crazy" ones, "The Canine," which is grown just for potting in a house, and the colors are lovely, ranging from the entire gamut from white to the deep maroon of the Butus.

Then there are greenhouses of "novelty" chrysanthemums, that are much more naturally in form, in all colors and sizes from miniature pompoms to the lady's beauties that run close to the prize ones. The chrysanthemums are just coming buds, large single-bloomers which are in their glory of bloom at Christmas time.

This show, visited from far and wide, is open to the public to enjoy visiting the green houses. There are some 200 varieties of chrysanthemums to be seen.

But even now, chrysanthemums are not the only "chief attractions," for the many houses of roses are coming into their richest bloom, and there are some rare roses to be seen and "smelled to heart's content." First, one meets rows and rows of exquisite pink and yellow "Baby" roses, and then goes on into the great rose gardens. The Mrs. Main Coolidge is of rich texture, graceful shape and deep gold in color; the Mrs. Warren Harding is a deep and luscious pink, also fragrant; the Francis Scott Key rivals the American Beauty, while the Hadley, of deepest red, has a fragrance that makes one think of all the old-time rose gardens they have ever visited.

Then there are the carnation roses, the literal "green houses," devoted entirely to smilax, asparagus vines, and other green finery.

With all the glory of bloom, the remarks most frequently heard from experienced visitors are not only exclamations over the blossoms but of delight over the clean, rich, luscious foliage and the absolute neatness of the greenhouses. Merely to walk in them is a very real joy.

Rich Fabrics and Beaded Novelties

French Women Approve Elaborate Materials; Also Chic Decorations.

Elaborate fabrics are generally receiving the favorable consideration of the beau monde at smart French resorts, says a Paris fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. At Deauville Gabrielle Chanel is showing a new tunic dress made of a velvet brocade on a mousseline background, the black and white being artistically merged. The material is such as to need no embellishment. Chanel uses it to make an almost full-length tunic under which is just visible a black lace petticoat.

The continuance of beaded effects is one of the surprising features at Le Touquet. Jenny is showing a half-dozen new models with bead embroidery. All are in tunic form over tight and short foundation slips. Those in white are often worn over black, and from one side is frequently suspended a brilliant splash of color in the form of plaited chiffon sash ends, ostrich feather-trimmed panels or cascading flowers.

For autumn Jenny is developing some of these beaded models in velvet. This is an obvious effort to carry the beaded velvet dress over into another season. Its success, however, is still problematic. This designer has one lovely model in a soft beige crepe de chine inset with narrow bands of self-tone chiffon. The crepe de chine shows an allover beaded design, while the chiffon is plain. The whole is worn over a slip of coral pink satin which gives a rosy tone to the tan color and emphasizes the narrow chiffon panels. Underneath the tunic, which is only about three-quarters long, there is a finely plaited skirt of chiffon over a foundation of pink satin. Jenny has developed this same model in a beige batiste with an allover embroidery and incrustations of real lace, all dipped in tea color.

Formal affairs at Deauville indicate a continuance of ostrich as the most popular garniture for the dancing frock. The reason for this is patent. The trend toward vivid hues as a supplement to black-and-white has been particularly evident in the robes du soir, and the feather of the ostrich lends itself readily to the various color trends. Apparently no object can assume a more translucent appearance than these feather fronds which have an unequalled ability to temper the garishness of the most brilliant shades.

Some of the early summer vogues are being seriously revived at Deauville, and the object is to ascertain whether or not they may be retained for the autumn and winter seasons.

Among Fall Styles for Well-Dressed Children

Beige broadcloth is used to build this handsome coat for a little miss. The beaver collar blends beautifully with the material, and the capped back keeps the shoulders warm.

Latest Trifles for Girl

With Abbreviated Locks

The demand for accessories that have to do with the bob or shingle is increasing fast and a number of engaging novelties intended to add to the comfort and appearance of the shorn head are constantly appearing. Ornamental coverings to keep the locks in order on every and all occasions are designed. Some, when need is urgent, completely cover the head, and even the wig is now quite usual. Caps of silk cord, floss, narrow ribbon, put together in lattice pattern, are in popular demand, especially for motorcycling, because they hold the hair in place and are much cooler than a solid covering or even one of net or chiffon. Some are charmingly becoming.

Among the latest trifles, apropos of the bob, is a little comb made especially for the taming of those waves that must needs be put in their place several times a day. The comb is fitted in a case of leather and may be easily carried in the purse.

Predicted for Fall

Navy blue and terra cotta is a delightful color combination which may be popular this fall. So far it is seen in some frocks, and hats.

Women have named it "white magic" because it saves their strength

A million magic bubbles for a new-fashioned washday

ITS real name is Chipso.

Last washday it saved for thousands of women a precious hour which was once consumed in chipping, shaving, or melting old-fashioned cake-soap, in prolonged hard rubbing, and in tiresome repeated rinsings.

And these women didn't spend a cent more for their Chipso washing than they formerly spent when they used ordinary laundry soap. Yet Chipso not only saved their time—it saved energy and saved clothes; it brought beautiful white results; it assured safety to colors and fabrics.

Another washday is coming soon

You must have Chipso then.

We have called Chipso "Quick Suds" because it expands into a veritable mountain of bubbly whiteness, almost the instant it touches the water.

Its users call Chipso "white magic" because it washes so quickly and easily and beautifully, by any method. Boil with it, soak with it, use it in the washing machine—Chipso and water are all you need.

If you have been using powders and chipped soaps that make you sneeze, Chipso's clean, powderless whiteness will give you a new conception of convenience without discomfort.

Don't go through another moiling, dreary, old-fashioned washday. Chipso is at your grocer's now. Big blue-and-orange packages fairly bursting with value and helpfulness.

However you wash, Chipso and water are all you need

ANCIENT RELICS TO BELONG TO MUSEUM

Fine Archeological Collection for Houston, Texas.

One of the largest and most interesting archeological collections in the Southwest is that of Prof. W. F. Cummins, oil geologist for the Southern Pacific railroad. Professor Cummins has announced his intention of presenting this wonderful collection of ancient relics to the Houston museum. It consists of several hundred stone and clay images which he found in the Maya ruins in Yucatan, Mexico, and many strange objects which he unearthed in exploring prehistoric mounds in Missouri.

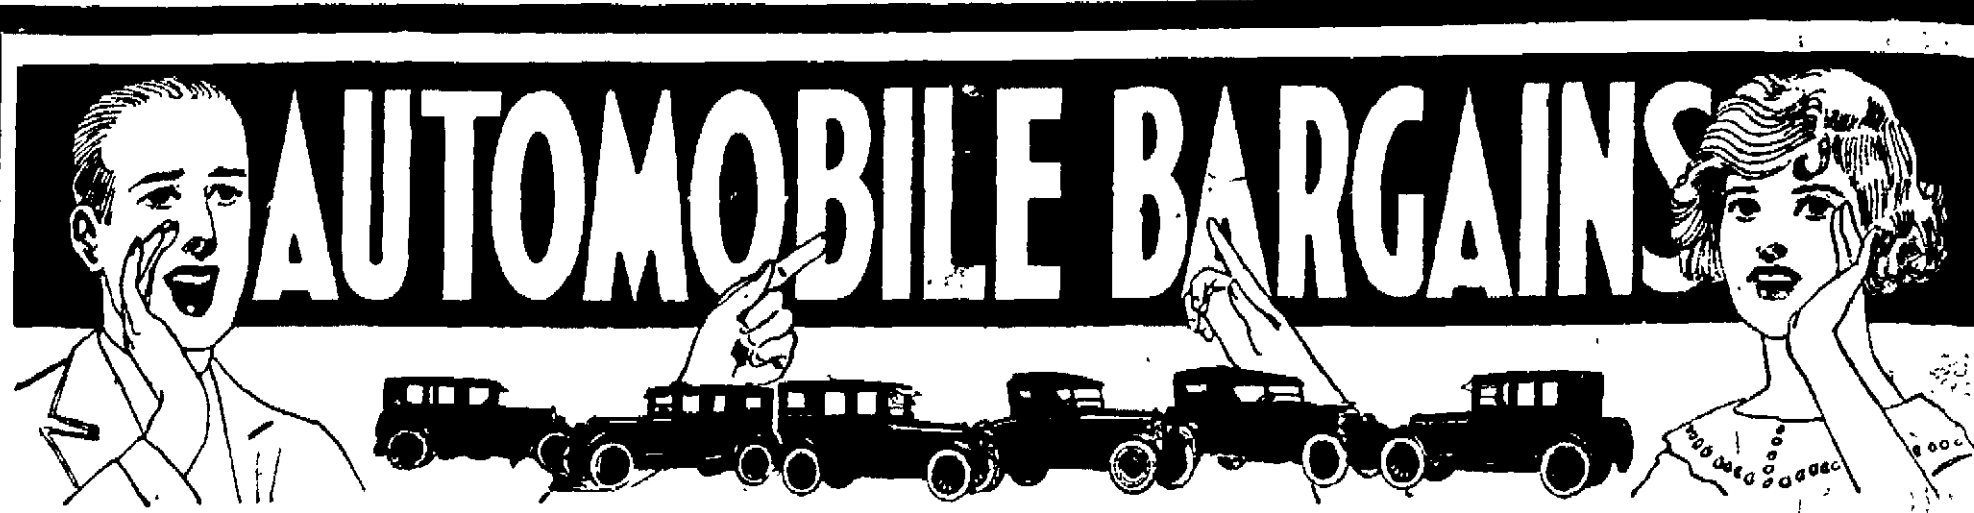

One specimen is a sacred image carved in stone, found nearly four years ago in a Missouri mound, pronounced by expert geologists of the government not only genuine, but the finest specimen ever found from the mounds and ruins of the prehistoric civilized race of the United States. Professor Cummins refused an offer of $5,000 for it, or for a cast of it, from a government scientific institution. But he kept it as the only one of its kind for presentation to the Houston museum.

The workmanship of this stone image is perfect, requiring high artistic skill in conception and execution, indicating "an advanced degree of civilization had been reached, as well as a knowledge of species of animals that have not existed for thousands of years on this continent. The image has the beak of an eagle, the horn of a rhinoceros, the feet of an elephant, the shell of a tortoise, the flippers of a seal and the tail of a Gila monster, also the wings of a grasshopper or locust. It is stained with a brown pigment of some unknown substance, and when discovered was incased in red clay. It is carved from a fine-grained hard white limestone, is 33 inches long and weighs 68 pounds. When found a small creek had cut away part of the mound, leaving some of the image exposed. It has been in Professor Cummins' possession since 1923.

As the ancients of central Asia had the tradition of the Noachian deluge, destroying the most of the world, so also the Ancient American races had a similar tradition. Having suffered from great destruction of vegetation in what are now some of the western states, their tradition was that the world was destroyed by swarms of grasshoppers. This image commemorates the destruction of the world by grasshoppers, according to Professor Cummins.

Extracting Flower Essence

Perfume must be drawn from the bloom on the day that it is picked. In 24 hours the delicate aroma is almost gone. Many flowers are required to produce small amounts of the perfume. It takes about two tons of violet blossoms, for instance, to make about two pounds of essence of violets.

JESSICA BASTINGS' grandmother was a very precise old lady, who sat all day in her geranium-filled window and lived in the past. The busy world might go rushing by without, but it did not interest her in the least. Times changed, but not for grandmother. And Jessica, for whom there was no intervening generation, was frequently hard put to it for her good times and innocent girlish desires. Both Jessica's parents had been killed in a steamship collision, and her father's mother had taken the curly-headed little girl and brought her up according to the standards of forty years ago. "Oh, Gram, please let me have my dress three inches shorter, at least," she begged at the time of her senior high school ball. "Gram" yielded an inch, but no more, and did that with her usual old-fashioned admonition, "Look out, my dear. Girls that go contrary to their elders always get their come-uppance!" "Come-uppance!" How Jessica came to hate that homely word! And yet love for her grandmother and a very real appreciation of all she had been to her through the motherless years often checked on her lips the quick remonstrance. And a little extra money all her own would mean so much. Yet she could foresee the trouble with her grandmother which such a suggestion would entail. Yet, in the end, Jessica had her own way. Something happened to one of the companies with which their frugal investments were placed and their income was temporarily curtailed. Even her grandmother could see that any salary Jessica might bring in, however small, would help bridge the gap, and she could not ask the healthy, eager girl to pinch and do without—as she in her day would have done—rather than join the ranks of wage-earners. "Only remember, my child, that you are a lady. Be modest and prudent."

Otherwise, you will surely get your— but Jessica, overwhelmed at being fit last allowed to follow her inclinations, was too overjoyed to mind the loathed warning. Each day now she departed for work full of happy anticipation, and every evening returned contented and cheerful. Untrained, she had not so cured any remarkable job, yet one that suited her—that of clerk in a bookshop—and daily it became more interesting. Especially after Cowles Dayton appeared on the scene. That breezy young reporter, with a keen pose for news and a tongue ready with the latest slang and smart journalism, was a known friend of the book store proprietor. And after he met Jessica, it did not seem to bother him if, when he dropped in at the noon hour, his bosom friend was out for lunch and only Jessica and a long-legged boy of all work remained. There came a day when Jessica suspected, although Cowles had as yet said nothing, that he was beginning to care for her, and her great problem loomed up of how to get her grandmother used to him. She feared that, however warned in advance, his tendency to call a spade a spade, or to revert to the language of short cuts and telling phrases would hide his really fine qualities from her grandmother. However, from time to time, she casually mentioned Cowles, and even let her grandmother know that she had actually lunched with him, although she forebore to mention that the meal had been unchaperoned except by the eyes of the world in general as it foregathered at a popular eating place. Then occurred the theater fire, creating a crisis in the lives of at least two people, Jessica and Cowles were on their way home from Rigoletto when the fire trucks dashed by as they were about to hail a taxi. Simultaneously the two looked at one another. "I ought to cover it," murmured Cowles. "Let's go," said Jessica. The blaze proved to be a destructive and spectacular one, completely destroying a large moving picture place. Time slipped by unheeded, and when at last only smoldering charred walls remained, Jessica was horrified to find that the small hours of the morning were well upon them. Frantically she hoped that her grandmother would have gone to bed long ago. "She'll be worried to death!" she told Cowles as the speeding taxi bore them homeward. "I suppose," and he regarded Jessica whimsically, "that in your grandmother's day a gentleman who kept a lady out all night would be expected to marry her?" Jessica looked startled. "Oh—I—I—imagine so," she said. "Then," and he reached for her hand, "the very least we can do to satisfy the old lady is to become engaged. How about it, little girl, whom I have loved for a long, long time?" Before she could protest he had captured both hands, which at first struggled to escape, then lay quiescent in his. "Oh," breathed Jessica, and let him draw her head to his broad shoulder, "grandmother says some day I would get a come-uppance, but I didn't dream it would be you!"

Rich Plains in Australia.
An adventurous Australian conducted a motor car expedition across Australia for more than 1,500 miles beyond the railway. Following dry river beds the party found lakes and water holes and rich alluvial plains where water can be obtained within a foot or so of the surface.

His Was the Last Word.
Candid Friend—"You told me you always had the last word with your wife, and all the time I've been here she's been ordering you about." Much Married—"Well, I do have the last word. Didn't you hear me say 'All right'?"

American Institution.
The high school is distinctly an American institution. The English high school of Boston, founded in 1621, was the first of its kind and gradually, as free elementary schools were established throughout the country, the high schools followed.

A Book Ledger
I got my most definite literary stimulus from my father, who continually managed to inculcate in me an interest in good books. On my last visit home I found put away in a safety deposit box a ledger which shows he presented it to me on my eleventh birthday, and in which he had written the request that I should note the name of every book I read and with a brief review tell the impression it made on me. I faithfully kept up that record until I was through college. As I looked over it the other day, re-reading the boyish scrawls on the earlier pages, I found in an elaborate discussion of "Scottish Chiefs" the beginning of a taste, literary or otherwise—but anyway for reading—that has still endured.—Will H. Hays, in Hearst's International.

His Walk in Life
Worried Mother—"I'm sure I don't know what we'll ever do with Harold when he grows up, John. Did you ever see such impossible long legs?" "Don't worry, my dear. Perhaps we can let him out to rentors to prove that their houses are within easy walking distance of the station."—Life.

Not That Kind
"I fancy you are a typical Arkansan, don't you know?" said the spectacled tourist. "Well, any by-gosh time you figger that I'm typical," grimly replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, "you just try to tip me over and—ptu—and out."—Kansas City Star.

First Aid
"What did you do when Bluebell fainted from the heat?" "Rushed her into a drug store for first aid." "Did that help her?" "Oh, yes. The soda clerk fixed her up a nice ice cream sundae."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

So It Goes
"Are the girls timid when in a barber shop?" "Now, the men are the ones who show signs of panic."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Dog Does Town's Greeting
A huge St. Bernard dog is the reception committee at the little mining village of White Horse, Alaska. Tourists returning here relate how impressed they were with the cordiality of the unique welcome accorded them there. Mrs. C. C. Puffer of Brockton, Mass., world traveler, told this story, according to the New York World. "As we alighted in the town we were met by a large curly-haired St. Bernard dog. He carried a sign which read, 'Reception Committee of White Horse. Welcome. Shake.' " "We stretched out our hand and the smiling dog with massive head and kindly eyes raised a poverty paw for our handclasp. "At the slightest squeeze of his foot the big dog welcomed every one by a hoarse bark, which immediately started all the malamutes in the village, until it became one howling pandemonium."

Dog Must Stay Out
"I don't mind the children having a dog," explained a Trumbull avenue woman recently, "but hereafter, the animal has got to be kept out of the house while I'm cooking. I had just made a batch of light rolls, and had them in a pad in front of the fire to raise. They had just got a good start, and I left the room. When I came back, the dog had got into the kitchen some way and was just finishing the last of the rolls. They must have been pretty good, too, for he swelled up until he was almost twice as big around as he ought to be. It didn't do him any permanent damage physically, but I guess it hurt his feelings when I told him what I thought; anyway he wouldn't look me in the eye for a week."—Detroit News.

Paid in Advance
John C. Coolidge, President Coolidge's father, who recently celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday at Plymouth, Vt., has a quiet and contented life. He said at the Plymouth general store the other day: "There are only two kinds of husbands, namely, the husked husband and the despot. "The husked husband husked in at once. The despot goes in after supper."

Republicans Have Paper Majority

Late returns indicate the Republicans have a paper majority of about thirty seats in the house. This is not sufficient to give the Republicans a dependable working majority, for a coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans, (there are 16 of these from Wisconsin and the northwest), can block the administration on any agreed occasion.

In the senate, the same situation generally prevails. The Republicans gained seats in Colorado, Kentucky, Massachusetts and Oklahoma—four. They have apparently lost a seat in New Mexico, late returns indicating the defeat of Senator Burton by Judge Brenton, Democrat, and they may yet lose seats in Iowa, where Dan Steck (D) is running ahead of Brookhart (R), and in South Dakota where there is a nip and tuck fight between McManer (R) and Cherry (D).

Thus, the balance of power seems certainly to remain vested in the little group of insurgents, as it has been in the last senate.

About the Folks

Mrs. Mary E. Weeks of 53 Downs street will spend the winter at West Palm Beach, Florida.

The many friends of little Merton Parslow of Prospect street are glad to hear he is improving after accidentally having a large stepping stone fall on his foot. He is under the care of Dr. Kemble.

John Erbe of 160 Highland avenue is spending two weeks in Brooklyn visiting his daughters. Mr. Erbe is a well-known musician, retired, having been for many years a member of the U. S. Army band at West Point Post.

How He Accomplished It

Mr. Eric Geddes once remarked that before doubting any statement a man may make, no matter how seemingly incredible it sounds, one should be quite sure to its precise meaning.

In order to illustrate his contention he went on to instance the case of a friend of his who knew a little about billiards and chess, and who told him one day that he had beaten the amateur champions of England at both games.

Mr. Eric expressed great surprise and some incredulity, but the other persisted that his statement was quite true.

"You see," he explained, "I took on the champion billiard player at chess, of which he knew nothing, and I played the champion chess player at billiards, of which he knew less."

Society Notes

Masquerade Dance Tonight.

This evening a masquerade dance will be held at the Masonic Club rooms under the auspices of the Mystic Court, No. 62, Order of the Amaranth. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. Zucca's orchestra will furnish music.

Lowell Club.

The Lowell Club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Everett. The general topic for the day was "Belgium and Switzerland." Two comprehensive and interesting papers were read. Mrs. Everett had a paper on "Brave Belgium and The Royal Household," while Mrs. Adams gave a second paper on "Leaders in Switzerland." Next Tuesday this club will meet with Mrs. Van Leuven.

Christiana-Marble.

A very pretty election wedding took place at the parsonage of Clinton Avenue Methodist Church Tuesday morning at 11:30 when Miss Myrtle E. Marble of this city became the bride of Charles C. Christiansa of Allentown, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Seckler of 10 Van Buren street accompanied the bride and groom to the parsonage and witnessed the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Robert A. Greenwell. Mr. and Mrs. Christiansa will make their home at Allentown.

The D. A. R. Meetings.

The D. A. R. will have two important meetings at the Chapter, D. A. R., at the Chapter House this week. On Thursday the regular monthly meeting will be held in the Chapter House at 3 o'clock, preceded by the local board meeting at 2 o'clock. The subject for the day will be "The First Senate," and the speaker will be William C. DeWitt. The hostesses will be the Misses Louise Van Hovenberg and Ellen Van Slyke. On Friday afternoon, November 7th, there will be a special meeting at the Chapter House when the Chapter members will be honored with an address by the New York State Regent, Mrs. Charles White Nash. Every D. A. R. is urged to be present at each meeting.

A Halloween Party.

A very enjoyable Halloween party was held at the home of Miss Helen Richter, 83 Greenkill avenue, on Halloween eve. Dancing and games were enjoyed by all. At a late hour supper was served. The table was very artistically decorated with yellow and black. Favors were given to all. After supper Eugene Castor played the piano and Miss Gertrude Jacobson gave a Spanish dance. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Among those present were the Misses Gertrude Jacobson, Helen Richter, Edna and Kathryn McElrath, Mae, Dorothy and Violet Benson, Catherine Emerson, Meador, Eugene Castor, Emerson McBride, Seymour Jacobson, Kenneth Beadle, William Dugan and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Richter, Mrs. O. Richter, Jr., and son, Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Richter and son, Gilbert, Mrs. O. Richter, Sr., and Mrs. Benson.

Haynes-Broken.

Friday morning, October 31, Susan Broken and Maynard Haynes were united in marriage, at Francis De Sales Church, Phoenixia, the ceremony being performed by Father Curley and Father Dinan. The best man and bridesmaid were a brother and sister, of the bride, John and Miss Lucile. The bride looked charming in a gown of white satin, and a lovely veil fell over it. The veil was fastened by a jeweled star, and the bride's hair was adorned with a delicate crown of green. The bridesmaid wore a pretty gown of silver which was brought out by a darker background. Both carried a bunch of flowers. A large number of friends witnessed the ceremony and congratulated the newlyweds. This was emphasized by confetti. After a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, they left for New York and Washington. Upon their return they will live at Phoenixia.

A Surprise Party.

At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Ewel, 11 Hooker street, Tuesday evening Miss Elizabeth Ewel was delightfully surprised, it being her birthday anniversary. The home was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns, roses and streamers. Games were played and dancing enjoyed, music being furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keyser of Hudson. Besides a check of fifty dollars from her parents, Miss Ewel received many beautiful presents. The out of town people were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keyser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ewel and Saul Bindskopf of Hudson, and Mr. and Mrs. Neussbaum of Albany. Several selections were sung by Henry Schultz and mother. A chicken supper was served. After listening to election returns over the radio, all departed at an early hour, wishing Miss Ewel many happy birthday days and voting Mr. and Mrs. Ewel and daughter royal entertainers. Sixty-two guests were present.

Festival of St. Peter

On the eve of St. Peter's day bonfires were commonly prepared and lighted throughout Great Britain. This festival was most fervently kept up at Elton during the Middle Ages, where the boys made their bonfires against the church. In London the day was also associated with bonfires in the streets and with the setting of a Watch at night, the Watch parading with torches, and sometimes burning fully 2,000 citizens. History records how King Hal, disguised in a guardman's coat, went privately into Cheapside to witness the pageant. Yorkshire fishermen remembered St. Peter on his day by holding festival, dressing their boats and painting their masts, and sprinkling the prows with good liquor for good luck.

Jimson Weed Valuable

Both the leaves and seeds of the Jimson weed have medicinal properties. The leaves are collected at the time of flowering, and the entire plant is cut or pulled up and the leaves stripped and dried in the shade. The leaves are poisonous, causing dilation of the pupil of the eye, and are used principally in asthma. For the collection of the seeds, the capsules should be taken from the plants when they are quite ripe, but still of a green color. The capsules should then be dried for a few days, when they will burst open and the seeds can be readily shaken out. These should then be carefully dried.

Intelligent Reading

If the books which you read are your own, mark with a pen or pencil the most considerable things in them which you most desire to remember. Then you may read that book the second time over with half the trouble, by your eye running over the paragraphs which your pencils has noted. It is but a very weak objection against this practice to say, "I shall spoil my book"; for Iperuse myself that you did not buy it as a bookkeeper, to sell it again for gain, but as a scholar, to improve your mind by it; and if the mind be improved, your advantage is abundant, though your book yields less money to your executors.

World's Oldest Umbrella

The oldest umbrella in the world still in the same condition as when it was bought, including the cover, is in the possession of a resident of Hobart in Tasmania. The umbrella was bought in 1770 by a man named William Clervett in the county of Dorset, England, who emigrated to Tasmania. It has been handed down from generation to generation and still belongs to a descendant of the first owner.

MOUSINE IS USEFUL FOR THOROUGHBREDS

August Busch of St. Louis, Mo., wealthy follower of the turf, recently received this palatial motor truck for carrying thoroughbreds overland. It will carry two horses at a time and is regarded as safer for handling valuable horses than railway trains. The new truck cost $10,000.

IGNITION SYSTEM
OFTEN NEGLECTEDAverage Driver Knows
Nothing About Electricity
as Applied to Car.

ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago, says many times I have been asked to look over a friend's car to find out what the trouble was one of the simplest. The average driver knows nothing about electricity as applied to the automobile and so is unable to tell when the ignition system is not functioning properly. He is afraid to experiment and believes in letting things alone until something happens. He then has over the system for the first time, and, of course, does not know whether the wiring is right or not. I have repeatedly pointed out the danger of worn insulation, among other things, about which the operator knows nothing. In one case the car was jumping freely from a distributor wire to a piece of metal near the engine and he pointed to it as evidence that he had a good spark, evidently supposing it was a matter of course that a spark should jump where it did.

Instruction Book Helps.

Even if the operator understands the nature of his ignition system he should at least familiarize himself with the positions of the various wires, their colors and general condition. Here the instruction book helps a great deal. Then if any of them becomes displaced it will be readily noticed. Watch particularly for cases where one wire chafes against another or some piece of metal. These places should be protected with tape, or at least separated so no short circuit may occur. But high tension or secondary wires develop a short circuit where expected, so that it would be well to cover them occasionally to see that leakage takes place. This is particularly true during rainy weather. The moisture is drawn in by the fan scattered around under the hood, which will not leak current but will short-circuit during a wet day. The best method is to run the wire and to trace along each wire, pulling it away from any place it may touch to see or feel if the current is leaking through the insulation. Where leakage is noted the place must be covered.

Possible Short Circuit.

A more puzzling problem occurs where all the wires from the distributor pass through a metal tube. There always the possibility of a short in the wires to the tube as the tube is always grounded. Proceed as follows: First find out if the current enters the suspected wire. To do this connect the wire at the distributor and hold it near its contact to see the spark jumps. Of course, if no spark is seen the trouble is not in the wire, but in the distributor. If a good spark occurs at the distributor but not at the other end of the wire there is a short in between. The wire can be pulled out and a good one substituted, although the old one may be made serviceable again.

On some systems it will be found impossible to remove the defective wire.

It is necessary to substitute a good wire between the same points, running along the outside of the tube and securing it by means of tape.

For Woman Car Owner

Women who do a considerable amount of work about their cars will find an admirable costume as follows: A kitchen apron fastened in the back and buttoned tight around the neck, completely covering the street clothes; sandals to cover the shoes; a pair of gloves and a cap fitting snugly over the hair. In this garb they will be entirely protected from the elements.

Crack Case Oil Waste

Did you ever stop to think how much oil is wasted yearly in the cleaning of auto crank cases? The oil is changed about 12 times a year in each car, thereby wasting about 24 gallons of oil. In a single case, this doesn't sound much, but collectively the waste is appalling. For the 7,000,000 cars in use, it would amount to an annual loss of 168,000,000 gallons.

Jack Is Useful on
Balky Mounted Rims

When a rim with tire is mounted on the wheel it often happens that the rim cannot be moved into place, remaining partly on and partly off. Slight springing of the rim is all that is needed, and this may be done by placing the head of a jack against the hub of the wheel and the base of the jack on the protruding portion of the rim. Thus sprung a little, a hammer blow will slide the rim over the edge of the wheel. In most cases of this kind the mere operation of the jack will force the rim over the wheel.

Gruesome Warning for New York Jay Walker

This somewhat gruesome sign was installed at Fifth Avenue and Forty-second street, New York, as a warning to careless pedestrians and automobilists. Light plays behind the transparent picture, flashing on and off at regular intervals. The sign will be moved from one congested corner to another in the city's crowded districts.

Too Much Talk of Speed
and Too Little of Brakes

In fast rail traffic, both with the steam railroads and electric trains, the first requisite is the rapidity with which the engine can stop. Motorists on the other hand, have been giving their entire attention to speed, with little thought how quickly a stop can be made. "Pick up," "get away," "dash," are the most familiar terms to the everyday motorist. It is time to put on the brakes. The national brake inspection movement, which has the endorsement of leading automobilists, police officials and government experts, will accomplish much good if it does nothing more than call the attention of motorists to the necessity of a regular inspection of their brakes.—John J. Younger, Supervisor of Engineering, Motor Transport Division.

Removing Sprockets

When attempting to remove sprockets or gears from the shafts to which they are attached by means of taper or plain fits and keys, care must be exercised not to use a hammer too freely, for fear of either fracturing the gear or springing it out of line. A so-called pulley puller or special jack may be improvised without difficulty under almost any circumstances, and by its use the part may be removed straight without imposing undue strain upon it.

To Repair Fuel Line

When the fuel line suffers a fracture on the road there are a number of emergency repairs that may be made. If rubber tubing is available a section of this will make an admirable splice. A cork with a hole through it may be used and in the absence of one a raw potato with a hole through it makes a very satisfactory temporary splice. Cloth smeared with soap or shellac and then reinforced with splints is very handy.

SCHOOL DAYS

THEIR RAPS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A KIND of boy I do not like
When playing ball you often strike

Who always takes his turn at bat
And doesn't stay till Jack and Jim
Have had their raps the same as him.

You see, in playing work-up you
First field, then catch, then pitch a few.

Until the boy at bat flies out
And then it's your turn, turn-about.
They all should stay, the other chaps,
Till all the rest have had their raps.

My father says that you can tell,
Tell pretty sure and pretty well,
The kind of man a boy will be
The way he plays at work-up, see?

He says if boys are fair in play
They likely will grow up that way.
And I intend while I'm a boy
To see that others have their joy.

And I intend, when grown up, too,
To always try that way to do—
When I'm a great big man perhaps
To see that others get their raps.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

RUB OFF THE DUST

TO KEEP your mind bright, your conscience clean and your vision clear, rub off the rust. Let no day pass in which you have failed to do some vigorous rubbing.

If you cannot recall past impressions in the most vivid way, your memory is rusting. Seek the rust spots, give yourself no rest until they have been found and rubbed out.

The need for diligent action is imperative. And this activity must be your own. No one else is qualified to do the work.

If there be an impoverishment of thought, rub off the gathering rust by reading instructive books, by calling up scenes from other days, by taking solitary walks along hillside paths and in the leafy aisles of the woods.

As you go from place to place keep your eyes open. Train your faculties to recall what you have seen so that you may be able at some other time to describe the mental pictures to your friends.

Stop in the fields of daisies, pluck one of the flowers, pull it apart, contemplate its exquisite formation, its dainty coloring, and let your thoughts run free with a loose rein. Do not pause until you have become fully impressed with the perfect handiwork of Nature—with never a blemish or a speck of rust.

Listen to the music of the birds! There are no rusty notes in their praiseful songs that glint and shine like streams of gold as they flow from their swelling throats.

Think whence the tuneful melodies come. Rub the rust off your intellect until it shall gleam like a mirror, reflecting the beautiful all around you. It will do you good, stir your imagination and make of you a nobler being.

To make ourselves better, to make ourselves worthy of respect, we must fight against the rust that dulls minds and darkens visions. Without active minds and penetrating visions, we have no real existence. Let us raise our eyes to the heavens and think!

Let us try to vision the vastness of space, what lies millions, billions and trillions of miles beyond. Let us get away from the eating rust and dank decay.

And above everything else, let us thank God for the wonderful things which human greed and selfishness cannot control—free as the ambient air to the humblest creature of His creation.

Mother's Cook Book

How many, many friends there are whose lot keeps them outside my path from day to day! But through the distance and the dark I smile For I can love them though I see them not.

FRUIT FOR THE FAMILY

FRUIT should be served freely in any family, and especially where there are young children. Canned fruit in winter takes the place of the fresh fruit, which is much more desirable when it can be obtained.

A bit of pineapple added to almost any fruit combination is an improvement, as the pineapple flavor seems to enhance the flavors of other fruits. Pineapple is good for the digestion, as it contains a pepsin all its own.

Fruit Delight.

Mix one can of crushed pineapple, or a few spoonfuls of pineapple and sliced peaches, one-fourth pound of marshmallows cut into quarters, a pinch of salt, and a little of any fruit sirup; chill. Beat one cupful of thick cream until stiff, add one-fourth cupful of sugar and the fruit drained from the juice. Serve in glasses garnished with a cherry.

Tapioca Pudding.

Drain the sirup from one can of peaches or pineapple, add enough water to the sirup to make three and one-half cupfuls of liquid. Bring to the boiling point and add one cupful of minute tapioca and cook, stirring constantly until clear. Pour one-half in a baking dish, cover with the fruit, adding a handful of dates or raisins; pour over the remaining tapioca and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes. Serve with cream and sugar.

Add sliced peaches, pineapple or any desired fruit to a cottage pudding, and bake in gem pans. Serve with the fruit sirup, thickened slightly and with a bit of butter and a dash of lemon juice added.

Shortcake need not be confined to the strawberry season, for many fruits may be delightfully served in that way. Even canned fruits are well liked, and when thinking of something for a change, try sliced oranges; they are delicious. Pour the juice and all over the hot buttered cake.

Brown Betty is another pudding which need not be reserved for the apple. Any fruit with crumbs, sugar and seasoning baked in layers, makes a most tasty dessert.

Why Thin Folks Have Weak Blood

A Quick Way To Build Up

Thin folks don't go around looking pale and drawn as though the life had all gone out of them. Scientists have now found a way to put more red and strength into the blood at the same time you are putting on flesh and weight.

And here's how it is done—Go to any drugstore and ask for Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron in tablet form. In a day or two you'll find you are eating more, the angular hollows will begin to fill out, the blood being greatly enriched will quickly show the color of health and vigor in your face.

This sugar coated tablet containing the purest Cod Liver Oil and blood making iron is pleasant to take—no fishy mucous taste. In order to guard against cheap imitations be sure to specify Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablets. Don't forget to use the word Iron. Every drugstore sells a two weeks' treatment for $1.00—the most economical way to buy.

New Treatment Rids You Of Rheumatic Pains Quickly

No Medicine To Take. Results Guaranteed by Local Druggists

The well-known physician, Alessandro Volta, for whom the electric volt was named, has made a scientific discovery that produced marvelous results with the most stubborn and agonizing cases of rheumatism, where the old-fashioned risky internal drug treatment has failed.

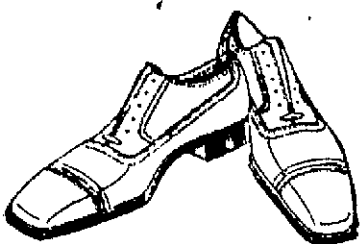

This famous discovery, which revolutionizes old ideas about the cause and proper treatment of rheumatism, is an external remedy, intended to be absorbed into the blood through the myriad pores of the feet.

The eminent Italian scientist has compounded a powder called Volta, that is intended to be a powerful and active (free) Acid solvent. This marvelous powder, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to be absorbed almost immediately into the blood, thus setting upon circulation, poisons now definitely determined to be the cause of most rheumatic agony.

So remarkable and rapid have been the results from the use of Volta powder, both in this country and in Italy, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense Volta with an unqualified guarantee of relief from the use of the very best package of your money will be refunded.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains, Sciatica, Lumbago, Gout or Neuralgia, you owe it to yourself to try this startling scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta, from such good druggists as: McBride Drug Store, W. S. Bittner, Mahon & Walker, J. J. Connelly Pharmacy, Weber's Pharmacy, Connelly Drug Co., William P. Dedrick.

Morris Gives Smith 119,000

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 5.—The entire Republican state ticket, with the exception of Governor, has been swept into office by safe pluralities, George K. Morris, Republican state chairman, declared here today.

"Colonel Roosevelt made a good fight and has nothing to be ashamed of," Morris continued. He came down to New York city from up-state with the greatest plurality ever recorded in the history of the state. The city vote defeated him.

Morris estimated Governor Smith's plurality at 119,000. He declared the missing up-state returns, which are slowly coming in, would cut Smith's present lead to that figure.

Morris declared that the returns from up-state showed that in many places more votes were cast for other state officers than for Governor.

Senator Bouton Is Re-Elected

ARTHUR F. BOUTON.

Senator Arthur F. Bouton of Roxbury, Delaware county, was re-elected senator in the twenty-ninth district on Tuesday by a tremendous majority. Ulster county gives Senator Bouton more than 6,300 majority. Greene county's majority for the senator was more than 2,700. Delaware county gave him 7,658 majority. Two years ago Delaware gave him more than 5,000 majority.

$200,000 JEWEL ROBBERY.

Stolen From New York Salesman In New Orleans Hotel.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New Orleans, La., Nov. 5.—City and state officers, working with scores of private detectives today were extending a dragnet over the entire south in an effort to apprehend the diamond robber who last night is alleged to have stolen jewels amounting to approximately $200,000 from a salesman at a local hotel. The robbery was reported to police at midnight by Henry Agate, the victim, who is a vice-president of the Bonner Jewelry Manufacturing Company of New York city.

Lowman May Be Lieut.-Governor

His Election Over Lunn Claimed by Republican State Committee.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 5.—The Republican state committee claimed on the basis of its figures this afternoon that Seymour Lowman, its candidate for lieutenant governor, would be elected by a large majority over Smith's running mate, George Lunn.

In conceding Smith's election by 110,000 the committee said the committee said Lunn had run 37,000 behind the governor in New York city, and that Lowman had been 20,000 ahead of Roosevelt in Westchester county. The whole state ticket, with the exception of Governor Smith, was elected, the Republican committee claimed, by 150,000 majority.

Rockland, Onondaga and Montgomery counties, for example, the committee said, gave Lowman larger majorities than they did Roosevelt.

Morin Held on Forgery Charge

Joseph Morin, a Frenchman Who Said He Lives in Lawrence, Mass., Waived Examination and Was Held for Grand Jury by Judge Groves.

Joseph Morin, 29 years old, a Frenchman, who said he lives at Lawrence, Mass., and who attempted, it is charged, to have a forged check for $25 cashed in some of the downtown stores, waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury by Judge Robert G. Groves in police court this morning. Bail was fixed at $2,500 and in default of bail he was again committed to the county jail where he has been held since October 27, when he was arrested.

Morin entered Larkin's shoe store on lower Broadway and picked out a pair of shoes and offered to pay for them with the check, but was told that the check would not be cashed. He left the shoes and said he would return later. He attempted also to have the check cashed in Lerner's shoe store on lower Broadway, but was unsuccessful.

The check was drawn on the State of New York National Bank and made payable to John Smith, and purported to be signed by Albert Kreisig of No. 769 Broadway. Mr. Kreisig when he examined the check pronounced it a forgery.

Col. Roosevelt In Good Humor

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt took his defeat in good humor today.

"The people of New York," he said, "seemed to like me, because they attended my meetings but when it came to voting they voted for Al Smith."

"When Buffalo voted heavily for me," he added, "it looked bright. The children don't care two whoops who was elected. They said they'd rather have my daddy in Oyster Bay than in Albany anyway."

He was pleased with the Republican victories in the state.

"I hope I helped them some," he said.

Roosevelt added that he had no plans for the immediate future other than to take a thorough rest.

Big Surprise For LaFollette

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 5.—The result of the election was a bitter disappointment to Senator Robert M. LaFollette. He had expected that the Progressive ticket would show far greater strength than it did, especially in the cities of the east.

Although maintaining strictest silence, LaFollette's friends and managers here today expressed not only disappointment but keen surprise that the Progressives had failed to poll a heavier vote. They had hoped LaFollette would run far ahead of John W. Davis in popular vote.

What LaFollette will do next is uncertain. He wants first to learn the approximate size of his total vote before announcing whatever plans he may have for pressing forward with the establishment of a new permanent political party, admittedly one of his chief reasons for having entered the campaign.

Business as Usual At White House

President Coolidge Takes Up Work of Nation Same As on Other Days—Congratulations Pour In.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 5.—The Stars and Stripes atop the White House snapped a little more defiantly in the morning breeze today.

And that was the only outward indication that the American people had accorded to Calvin Coolidge a lease on the premises at No. 1600 Pennsylvania for a full term of four years.

The program at the White House today was "business as usual"—a program no different than on any day since Coolidge succeeded to the presidency after the death of Warren G. Harding, nor since he was nominated by the Republicans as their presidential candidate.

When returns early this morning indicated a Coolidge-Dawes victory with a substantial majority in the electoral college, the little foursome which had sat together in the president's study during the evening, broke up. In the party were the President and Mrs. Coolidge and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

It was Stearns who discovered Calvin Coolidge and who has been steadily directing him towards today's goal—election to the presidency.

"It is the proudest moment of my life," Stearns said when the returns gave conclusive evidence of a Republican landslide.

Among those gathered at the White House none was more calm than President Coolidge.

It was the fourteenth time that he had watched election returns in which his own political fortunes were involved. He was confident from the first that he was going to be elected to the presidency.

The president went to bed at 1 o'clock this morning and was up again seven hours later. Breakfast was served at 8 o'clock and then Mr. Coolidge took his usual early morning walk through the grounds of the Executive Mansion, returning to his study to go over the later returns from western states.

Among the first callers to offer their congratulations upon the president's victory were Attorney General Stone, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Acting Secretary of Agriculture Gore.

Thousands of congratulatory telegrams poured into the White House, two special telegraph wires being required to transmit them.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

John A. Pultz died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Lieber on Livingston street, Saugerties, Tuesday, in the 76th year of his age. Mr. Pultz removed to Saugerties a few months ago from New York city.

Alexander A. Finger a native of Saugerties died at the Fireman's Home, Hudson on Monday. At one time he was principal of the Madison school and later conducted a date at Saugerties. He was a member of William H. Raymond Lodge, No. 59, I. O. O. F., and North American Lodge, No. 115, K. of P. Interment at Saugerties.

The funeral of Sylvester L. Imperini, who died at Christ's Hospital on Union Hill, N. J., on Saturday morning last, following a brief illness, was held from his late residence, 212 Liberty street, Union Hill, N. J., Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Augustine's Church at 9 o'clock, where a high Mass of requiem was celebrated for the repose of his soul.

The funeral was very largely attended, the deceased having possessed a large circle of friends and acquaintances by whom he was highly respected. The beautiful and numerous floral offerings gave testimony to his high standing. The remains arrived in this city on the 2:10 West Shore train and were met by a large number of friends and relatives and also by a delegation of fellow members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, they being C. O. Davis, William Carpenter, J. Haggerty, L. Dick, Thomas Quick and Edward Hoffman, who accompanied the body to Rosendale, where interment was made in the family plot of St. Peter's Cemetery.

On the Contrary

Maud (newly married)—You look very melancholy, George; are you sorry you married me?
George—No, dear, of course not. I was only thinking of all the nice girls I can't marry.

Maud—Oh, George, how horrid of you! I thought you cared for nobody but me.

George—That is so, my dear, I wasn't thinking of myself, but of the disappointment they have had!

BUCKY HARRIS WAS STARTED BY ERROR

Youthful Manager of Nationals Answered Telegram Sent Brother.

Fate has shaped much of the career of Stanley Harris, youthful manager of Washington's first pennant winner. A prank of fate gave him his start. Ever since, fate has watched over him, always in a most favorable manner.

Nine years ago Stanley Harris was playing second base for the Pittston (Pa.) team. Today he is the most talked-about figure in baseball. Harris is more than a miracle man, he's the "miracle kid."

The story goes that Frank Brower of the Cleveland Indians gave Harris his start. Incidentally it was a brother of Stanley's that Brower had in mind.

Back in 1918 Brower was playing first base for Reading, Pa., in the International league. The club needed a second baseman badly.

Brower informed the club manager that he had played with a fellow by the name of Harris in the South and he looked like a good man.

It also happened that Brower did not remember the first name of the said Mr. Harris. The Reading club decided to take a chance and sent the following wire:

"Harris, Baseball Player, Pittston, Pa.: Can you report at once? Need a second baseman badly."

Now it happens the telegram was intended for Merle Harris, who at the time was playing in the West. The wire was received by his brother, Stanley.

Harris took the first train for Reading. Imagine Brower's surprise when the wrong Mr. Harris reported!

When acquainted with the facts in the case by the youthful Stanley, Brower decided it would be best to go through with it, although he had no confidence in the ability of Harris to make good his recommendation.

In the first game Harris fielded perfectly and in four trips to the plate he made a single, two doubles and scored the winning run.

Later Harris was traded to the Buffalo club of the same league. The Washington club was tipped off that he was a good prospect. Griffith scouts reported favorably.

Not satisfied Griffith looked Harris over himself. The owner of the Nationals liked his style. After the game he learned that for several weeks Harris had been playing with a broken finger.

That fact caused Griffith to buy him. He liked the spirit. It is the spirit of Harris that has made Washington a pennant winner.

Fate and a fighting spirit have shaped the career of Stanley Harris—very successfully, too.

Hornsbey Is the Logical Successor to H. Wagner

Reverend Hornsbey is wearing the mantle that Hans Wagner tossed aside in the National league when he retired several years ago. Writes H. G. Salsinger in the Detroit News: Hornsbey is the logical successor to Wagner. Gradually the playing value of Hornsbey is becoming established. He has been a star for several years, but because of his hitting, his fielding was overlooked.

At the end of Hughie Jennings' first year with the Giants after he left the American league for the National, he said of Hornsbey:

"He is the most underrated man in baseball, the least appreciated. Hornsbey is one of the best fielders the game has produced. He doesn't get credit for it. One reason is his style. Another is his hitting. A man that hits as well as Hornsbey is regarded so highly as a hitter that people overlook his work in the field. They watch him closely only at bat."

Bogue Is at Auburn

Frankie Bogue, for the last three years prominent in the athletics of Spring Hill college, has entered the Alabama Polytechnic institute as a student of electricity. Though by conference ruling Bogue is ineligible this year for any team, he will be a candidate well worth watching next year when the whistle blows for training. Bogue is light for football, but will be a great help to the baseball and basketball teams. As well as being a splendid athlete he is a popular fellow.

St. John Aids Dr. Wilce

Twenty-four years ago this fall, L. W. St. John was a fullback on Ohio State's cracking good football team of that year. This fall he has returned to active coaching of football, aiding Dr. J. W. Wilce with the development of the varsity line.

Knut Rockne Wonder Coach

Success of Notre Dame's Teams in Hands of Stern Coach—Players Lead Healthful Life—College Without Dances, Fraternities or Clubs.

(By Davis J. Walsh)

61 Telegraph to The Freeman.
South Bend, Ind., Nov. 5.—The curfew shall not ring tonight.

A fiction hero achieved fame undying by mouthing these lines but he would carry the banner around Notre Dame University.

They go to bed at 10 o'clock every night except a favored few who might obtain permission, under stress of extraordinary circumstances, to stay out until midnight. The student who fails to appear at that hour, as automatically dismissed from the university.

The writer today was sitting with Knute Rockne, head coach, and "Chet" Wynne and Roger Kiley, former stars of all American rank. He wished to be enlightened as to how it was Notre Dame hopped up year after year with leading players who never before were heard of. Rockne answered the query in his characteristic way, as follows:

George Gipp, probably the most famous player the Irish ever had, never played a game before matriculating here. Of the present team, Walsh, possible all-American center, is said to have been a terrible thing two years ago, Weibel and Kreiz, were developed from half teams, R. Miller and Bach were subs in high school, so were D. Miller and Crowley, possible all-American backs. Leyden had some success in high school and Stuhldreher played at Kiski, which is the tip off on him.

The answer I let Rockne tell you. "We stress masculine self sufficiency," he declared. "There are no $5,000 jazz bands being imported from Chicago for dances, no fraternities, no clubs. The boys lead a healthful, normal life. Any one who doesn't fancy this, fails to last long at Notre Dame. Naturally, their life in sports, as would be the case with any young fellow or normal development. We have 100 men playing football every day, counting those who appear in the inter-hall championship. We just can't help having football players."

Just as every hall has its priest who stands guard to see that the curfew is observed, it also has its athletic captain who sees that no prospect is overlooked. A husky is dragged out to represent his hall team whether he cares to or not.

In a year or two, everything else being equal, he is a varsity player. The answer there is Knute Rockne. He is virtually a one man coaching staff. Tom Leib is his only assistant. Yet he sees all, knows all.

Rockne is a stern man but a just one. They say his players have wept, openly, when he took them to task after and during a football game. But they love him just the same. He is a natural leader, an appealing but dominant character. The writer attempted to tell him that he, Rockne, was the answer to Notre Dame's success.

"Any football coach of ordinary ability could make players out of the type of men I get," he said, deprecatingly.

K. H. S. Seniors Select Rings

Robert Herzog Elected Business Manager of Maroon—Preparations About Completed For Annual Fall Dance.

Tuesday afternoon the K. H. S. senior class held a meeting to select its class rings. Erwin Caw, who had been elected business manager of the Maroon, resigned his office stating that his work on the Athletic Council involved so much time and labor that it would be impossible for him to fulfill his duties as manager. The resignation was accepted and Robert Herzog was elected to manage the business of the Maroon this year.

The senior ring committee exhibited several fine samples of class rings. After some discussion the class chose a very sensible ring of green and white gold. This combination of metals with a touch of black enamel makes the rings different from any that former classes have had. Paul W. Coons, chairman of the Senior dance committee, reported that he and his co-workers had decided on the following program concerning the annual fall dance. The dance will be held Thanksgiving evening, November 27, in the high school gymnasium. The dance will run from 7:30 p. m. until midnight, something new for high school dances. The Apex Entertainers, an orchestra well known to Kingston dances, will furnish the music. Another new feature will be the waving of the gymnasium floor, which heretofore has been in bad condition for dancing. Tickets will be on sale the latter part of this week, which will include refreshments.
